Tornadoes!

Tornado glows at Sunset

David Zeigenhorn, Sikeston High School correspondent to the Daily Standard, captured on film the awesome sight of the tornado that approached Sikeston Monday afternoon as the evening sun broke through the clouds long enough to highlight the violent twist in its funnel. In the series at left, Daily Standard photographer, Tim Ludwig, pictured the sequence as the same twister formed from a small bud at the base of a cloud and snaked to the ground to tear up trees and cause some property damage. The twister lifted and passed over Sikeston without causing any damage. The water tower in the sequence is at Morehouse.

Bootheel raked by tornadoes

A heavy Spring storm, which raked Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois Monday night, spawned a series of tornadoes and wind storms.

Beginning at 5:50 p.m., tornatoes and funnel clouds were sighted east of Poplar Bluff, near Malden, Bernie, Essex, Morehouse, Penermon Bertrand, Scott City and Cape Girardeau. Several of these touched the ground, leaving behind damage, eight injuries in the Bootheel, but no deaths.

Two Illinois men, both employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, were injured when high winds blew the last four cars ofa moving freight train off the tracks three miles east of Poplar Bluff, the highway patrol reported.

Willard Dowd, 55, of Dupo, Ill. and Dennis Ward, 31, of Chester, Ill., sustained minor injuries when the caboose in which they were riding derailed at 5:50 p.m. They were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A tornado struck the end of the train south of Highway 60, near the Junction of Highway 60 and Route AA in Butler County. The caboose and four piggy back cars loaded with semi trailers were overturned.

About the same time five persons were injured when their mobile home overturned east of the derailment site. The trailer belonged to Amos Ward, 58, who sustained a back injury. Other injuries were Mary Ward, 46, foot injury; Willie Storey, 41, broken arm; Jacqueline Walton, 22, scratches; and Willie Walton, eight months, scratches. All were of Poplar Bluff Route Three. They were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff where all were treated and released except Amos Ward, who was admitted.

Two vacant houses in the same area were destroyed. Numerous houses received roof damage and broken windows. Power and telephone lines were blown down.

The community of Penermon was also hit by high winds and a reported tornado between 6:15 and 6:45 p.m. The community building of the town was destroyed and almost every house in the town had some sort of damage.

Another tornado was reported by the highway patrol about 7:15 p.m. near Highway 153, south of Hunterville in Stoddard County. Several barns, sheds and an unoccupied house were destroyed. Numerous houses in this area received roof damage and broken windows.

An unidentified woman, received minor injuries near Hungerville when her car struck a utility pole which broke the windshield, the highway patrol reported.

South of Essex, near the Junction of Highway 144 and Route KK, an unoccupied house trailer was overturned.

Several homes were damaged in the Northtown portion of Fredericktown, about 70 miles south of St. Louis, but no injuries were reported.

A heavy storm cell also moved through the Kansas City area Monday afternoon and a tornado was reported to have touched down in a rural area trailer park, destroying three trailers.

Illinois was plagued with the heavy storm cell. Two men working at a farm implement store in Freeburg, Ill., 25 miles southeast of St. Louis, were injured when a twister slashed across the north corner of town.

Bob McCulloch, 47, of St. Charles, and Don Barkow, 26 of Freeburn, Ill. were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital at nearby Belleville, Ill. McCulloch was admitted for observation and Barkow was treated and released. It was the second tornado to hit the Groth Implement Company in five years.

Manuel Drumm appointed

Dement resigns as city attorney

City Attorney Kenneth Dement submitted a letter of resignation to the City Council Monday night, saying he will not be able to fill the post after June 1.

Attorney Manuel Drumm was appointed to replace Dement. Drumm is a former city attorney.

Dement said he must leave the post because he is building a new house on North Ridge Road about three- fourths of a mile outside the city. State law requires employes of cities the size of Sikeston to live inside the city limits.

Dement has been city attorney for one and a half years. He replaced Drumm, who had resigned from the office.

The council approved a two-man Economic Development Department Advisory Board consisting of City Manager Jim Huff and Board of Municipal Utilities Director Dick Inman.

The purpose of the board is to aid the industrial development director, when one is appointed.

The council approved a $1,000 grant to a summer recreation program to be supervised by volunteers from various civic clubs of the city. The funds will be used mainly to purchase equipment.

John Strinich, representing the Exchange Club, told the council that the program would last 12 weeks, June 2 to Aug. 18. The recreation program will feature a variety of sports ranging from swimming to tennis and will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays at the high school, junior high school and Lincoln School.

The council approved an ordinance allowing the City Court to raise fines to the legal maximum of up to $500.

Missouri Petroleum Co. of St. Louis was awarded the contract to sealcoat city streets with a bid of 26.5 cents per square yard. The only other bid — submitted by the Wilson McMullin Co. — was for 28 cents per square yard for what the council decided was a less satisfactory type of sealcoat.

In other action before the council, Buchmueller, Withworth and Faust Inc. was given an engineering contract for the proposed airport project, which calls for resurfacing the runway and upgrading lighting.

The council approved the paving of three streets, East Gladys from Selma to the dead end, Westgate from Malone to Compress Road and Garwood Street from Edward to dead end.

The city accepted two Law Enforcement Assistance Council grants, one for $3,050 to pay for the cost of a detective for the police department. The city will match that amount. The second grant will provide $1,800 for a clerk for City Court. The city will provide $600. The clerk will ease the work load on police and allow a separation between the police and department and the court.

The council also assured a property owner on Marian street that something will be done about the water problems there. The council said, however, that the city cannot do anything until the water goes down and the ground dries out.

Ira Keller, a long- time member of the planning and zoning commission was reappointed to the commission by the council. Keller had resigned from the commission last year because of ill health.

The council also accepted a petition containing 1,700 signatures, calling for an election to allow liquor by the drink in the city. City Clerk John Vaughn will certify the signatures. If there are a sufficient number of names on the petition, an election will be called in 40 days.

The petitions contain the names of 20 per cent of the registered voters in the city to be valid. Vaughn said this morning he wasn't sure of the exact number of names needed.

Search underway for jail escapee

BENTON— The Scott County sheriff's department began a search this morning for Billy Joe Garrett, 32, of New Madrid, who escaped Monday night from the Scott County jail where he was being held while the New Madrid County jail is being remodeled.

According to Sheriff John Dennis, one of the prisoners requested a bandage from jailer Pete Gosche around 9:30 p.m. Gosche tried to throw it to the prisoner but the bandage fell on the floor. Gosche then unlocked the door to the main cell and walked around to pick up the bandage. Garrett reached through his cell bars, grabbed Gosche and held him until getting the keys away from him. Garrett then unlocked the cell, locked Gosche inside and fled.

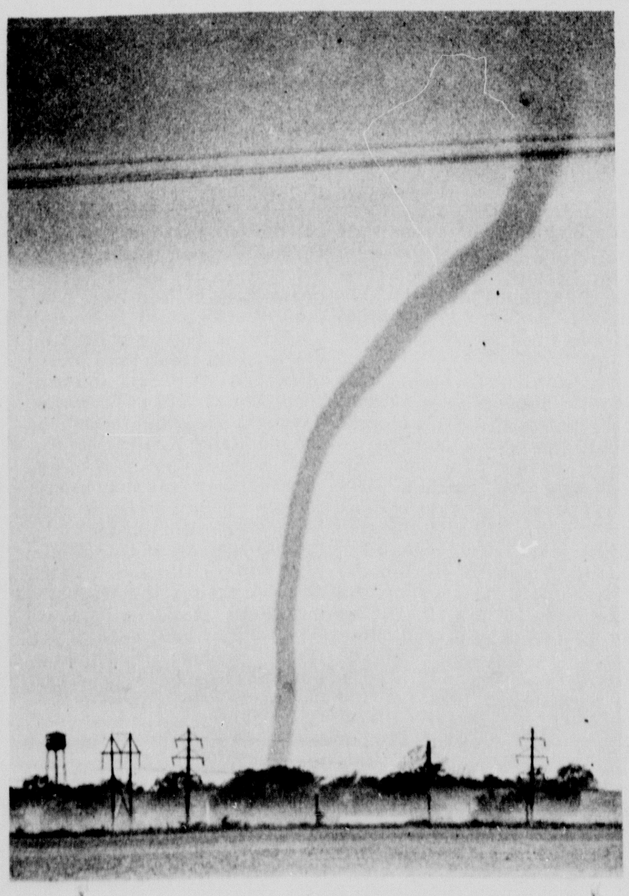

When Deputy Jack Stewart came to relieve Gosche this morning, he found the front door unlocked and Gosche locked in the cell.

Garrett had been moved to the Scott County jail for New Madrid authorities because of the jail being remodeled.

Garrett, who was sentenced to 50 years in the state penitentiary in 1965 for armed robbery had been brought back to the New Madrid County jail for a hearing on a motion for a new trial he filed while in the state penintentary at Jefferson City.

Nixon asks disaster agency

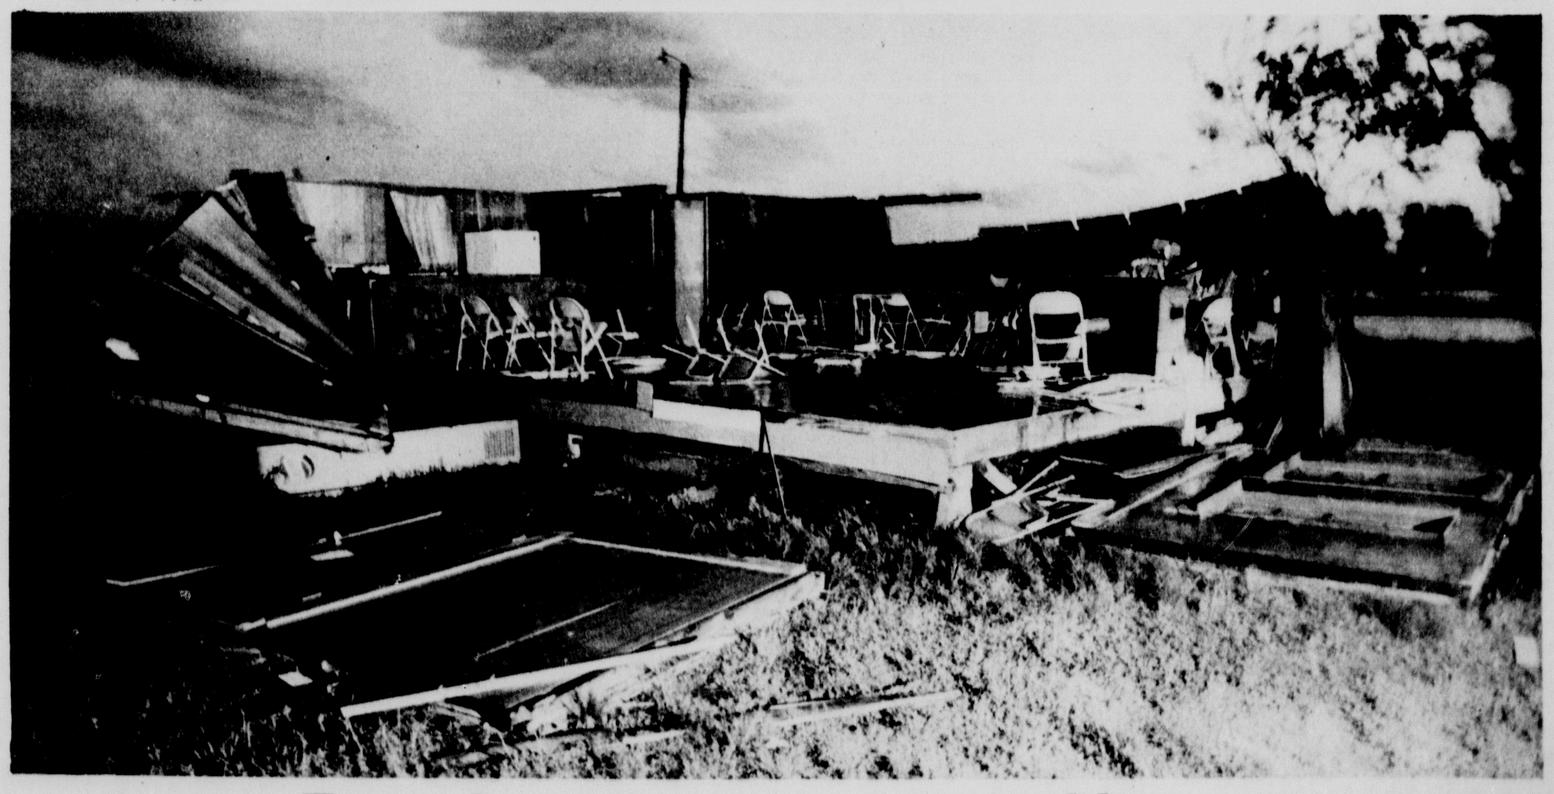

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate disaster activities in a single federal agency that would speed aid to victims while forcing the states to assume more responsibility in recovery from floods, earthquakes and other natural catastrophes.

"This bill would place greater emphasis on protecting people and property against the effects of disasters before they occur," Nixon said.

"While we cannot fully control the occurrence and the impact of disasters, we must do all we can to prepare for them, to prevent them, and to mitigate and remedy their effects."

The proposed Disaster Preparedness and Assistance Act is designed to standardize benefits for disaster victims; improve execution of the assistance program; prevent the misuse of benefits; strengthen preventive measures to minimize future losses, and increase the role of state and local governments in implementing the disaster program.

The President said the act "represents a comprehensive new approach to a very crucial problem." To ease the transition to the new system, if adopted, he proposed that during its first year of operation a special federal grant of $250,000 be provided to each state "to help it increase its disaster preparedness and assistance capabilities."

Tornado strips community building

Walls were blown outward and the roof was stripped from this Christian Liberty Community Park building in the Penermon Community in Stoddard County when a tornado swept through the small community about 6:30 p.m. Monday. See additional storm pictures on pages 5 and 7.

Our hard-nosed banker relative sent this short report too our attention:

"As we indicated a fortnight ago, new controls can't be ruled out. Every passing day provides fresh proof that the Government's game plan has gone awry. Administration critics who call what's happening to prices 'shocking' and 'outrageous' are right. But they're directing their blasts at the wrong target. Where were they when the seeds of inflation were being planted in the 'fifties and when they were beginning to sprout rapidly in the 'sixties? Many of those same critics were in Congress voting 'guns and butter' programs and preaching easy money policies as though we could afford anything we wanted by simply running the printing presses a little faster. Unfortunately, a majority of Americans apparently believed it, too, and went along with it. Now, at last the stark facts -- the fatal effects of profligacy -- are staring them straight in the face, and they're afraid."

The fact is that... "a 'lot' of inflation is made up of lots of 'little inflation.'"

OLD BRIDGES DON'T FADE AWAY

The city of Rocky River, Ohio, has a problem. It wants to demolish and replace the Rocky River Bridge which spans, appropriately enough, the Rocky River just west of Cleveland.

It seems the bridge is crumbling and is considered dangerous. Traffic has been reduced from four lanes to two.

Complicating matters, however, is the fact that the undistinguished structure has been declared a "historic monument" by the Ohio Historical Society, the National Parks Service and the National Council on Historic Preservation.

Even if it is a historic site, argues one Rocky River councilman, chunks of concrete continue to fall off it. The city hopes the federal government will weigh the cost of maintaining the "monument" against the cost of replacing it with a new and serviceable bridge.

The city of London had a similar problem. Its solution was to unload the tottering London Bridge on a real estate development in Arizona, where it is now a tourist attraction.

Anybody want the Rocky River Bridge?

A TASTE OF ITS OWN MEDICINE

What neither sleet nor snow nor gloom of night is supposed to be capable of, the Postal Service has managed to do itself — stay its couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds.

There was a brief item in the news the other day to the effect that postmen in a southern Illinois town — West Frankfort, to be exact — were hoofing it on their deliveries even though they have official mail cars.

Reason: The cars didn't have license plates.

Reason: The plates, new 1973 ones required by Feb. 15, had been lost in the mails. — D. G.

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Haven't heard any ivory tower economists or hard-headed brokers speak of it yet, but it seems reasonable that if you have any stock in the buggy whip factory you'd better hold onto it. It may rise out of sight.

This is because of what is termed the "energy crisis" but which really is nothing but an acute case of the shorts in the oil and gas supply.

They're talking now about dollar-a-gallon gasoline, and when that comes, people may turn to horsepower again.

Most people's cars get about 12 to 14 miles to the gallon, no matter how much they lie about it. And a horse will walk that far for only 50 cents or so of oats by offhand estimate.

This could mean our streets will be filled with horses and buggies. If the environmentalists who are blocking the Alaska oil pipeline believe that will improve the ecology, they just don't understand horses.

The shortages already are here as survivors of this recent winter found.

It's so bad that a fellow we know built a second fireplace in his house and laid in a good supply of wood to let it cure before the gas and heating oil supplies are gone.

There are a fairly large number of persons who didn't know what gas heat was until they were grown men and women.

Some of these complained about central heat when it finally came. They just couldn't get warm unless they backed up to a fire.

Watch men today when they walk into a room with a fireplace.

Even if there hasn't been any fire there for years, they back up to it and hook an elbow over the mantle. It is an act built into their genes and chromosomes over countless centuries, just like breathing.

But, man, is it a lot of work! It's much easier to flick the thermostat up a couple of degrees than to cut half a cord of wood a day.

Of course it's not that much work if you have a small boy to do the wood chopping for you.

There were some compensations. This came on days when it was bitterly cold and the small boy's mother or grandmother decided to cook on the fireplace rather than start up the huge old cookstove in the kitchen.

Well, in no time at all the beans bubbled, the biscuits rose and browned, the ham sizzled, and there was the meal.

TV dinners aren't half the trouble.

They don't taste half as good, either, if memory serves properly.

GUN LAW SURVEY POLICE FAVORED MANDATORY SENTENCE

The gun identification law in Illinois bothered Bob Warner, an active citizen of Moline. To him, the law seemed worthless because crime continued to rise.

He drafted a bill providing a minimum of 25 years imprisonment upon first conviction for carrying a firearm during commission of a criminal offense. Second conviction carried a minimum of life imprisonment.

Mr. Warner wondered what police officers thought of the bill. He surveyed 256 police departments. He writes:

"The survey was taken in March and April of this year. Of 256 police departments, 250, or 97.7%, favored the bill while only 6, or 2.3%, were not in favor. Ten per cent of the 256 replies agreed with the idea of asking for a mandatory prison sentence, but felt that 10 to 15 years mandatory would be adequate."

He rewrote the bill carrying the lighter sentences. It was taken before an Illinois Senate Committee. The bill was defeated by a vote of 7-3.

Every administration is plagued by the misdeeds of some of its appointees to public office. FDR had his problems when misuse and abuse of federal funds were discovered in WPA and other New Deal programs. Harry Truman felt the touch of scandal in the case of the deepfreezes. Eisenhower was caught up in the scandal that sent Sherman Adams home in disgrace. Lyndon Johnson had the shadow of the Bobby Baker case handing over his head. Now President Nixon is squeezed in the middle of the Watergate debacle.

At stake are moral and ethical issues that cannot be overlooked. The American people have a right to expect their government to act uprightly. When public figures breach the common canons of conduct, no stone should be left unturned to bring the culprits to justice.

We will accept the fact that the President was not personnally involved in the sordid Watergate affair. But now that he knows of its existence and is aware of the names of those who have already been tried and found guilty, his duty is clear. It is Mr. Nixon's responsibility as President to see that the matter is thoroughly investigated and that the full weight of the judicial process is employed to guarantee justice is done.

Mr. Nixon has another responsibility. He should purge his administration of all who have been involved in this squalid affair. In this way people everywhere will know that his administration will not put up with this sort of thing, and even more, that he himself has taken a stand for ethical and moral principles that have suffered because of Watergate.

Any failure by Mr. Nixon to act now can only lead to the conclusion that there is something he wishes to keep hidden, and justify the caustic comments of his worst critics. He owes it to his friends and supporters to clean the slate.

If we are reading the signs right, despite the spotlight on Indochina, Watergate and other worries, most people are concerned and baffled by one subject -- inflation.

Most everyone we listen to say they don't know who or what to blame for inflation, but many are firm about one thing: Government spending is too high.

The experts say that the business boom is turning out to be far more inflationary than almost anyone predicted some months ago. Economists see a number of dangers growing out of inflationary pressures. For one thing, there is the prospect that union leaders in major negotiations for this year will be insisting on larger increases in wages.

Bigger pay demands, in turn, raise the threat that employers will be under pressure to raise prices to meet the wage demands -- and face strikes, if they do not.

There is concern about what the Government may have to do in order to bring inflation under control, such as, putting the squeeze on money and credit that could bring on a slow down or even a downturn.

But behind all the talk, fear of runaway inflation is widespread. So, once again, an effort may be made to "break inflationary expectations" without risking the kind of credit crunch that tends to bring on a recession.

WOULD MAKE MOCKERY OF MERIT SYSTEM

Gov. Bond again got off on the wrong foot recently when he nominated Edward E. Haynes of Moberly as head of the state merit system, and by week's end seemingly was in an embarrassing position.

State law requires that applicants for the job must take examinations and that a Governor select one of the top three.

Gov. Bond apparently personally wanted Haynes, an acquaintance from days when they worked together in the Jaycee organization, but when Haynes came in fifth in the examination, under the law he was not eligible for appointment.

Bond then asked two of the top three to waive their rights to be considered, which they did, under pressure of his request. This moved Haynes up into the top three and eligiblity for the job.

What makes the matter more unfortunate for Gov. Bond is that during his campaign, he severly criticized Gov. Hearnes for making appointments in much the same way, because of his personal favoritism.

If the state senate, which must confirm the appointment, allows the stae merit system to be juggled in such a manner, we might as well do away with the merit system. The appointment of Haynes, regardless of his qualifications, would be a mockery.

SUCCESSFUL GROWTH

Since it is impractical to turn the clock back 30 or 40 years by curbing output of energy and "phasing out" the gas engine, the next best step is to take a look at areas of the country that seem to be doing a good job of meeting both environmental needs and the requirements of a growing population.

Florida is one of these areas. It is the fastest- growing, large state in the nation. Since 1960, its population has increased 28.3 per cent. In addition to rapidly - expanding tourism, industry and business, Florida's agricultural economy is growing in size and variety every year. With this growth has come a fast- rising appetite for energy. The power companies of Florida are succeeding in meeting this appetite while still keeping a strict eye on environmental considerations and the maintenance of adequate energy reserves. There is no talk of turning back the clock in Florida. Instead, people are benefiting from the state's growth, according to figures from one major power company which currently is carrying on exhaustive nuclear plant research work. Energy consumption per customer is at record levels and rising. The company's customer's enjoyed three rate reductions in 1969 totaling $5.7 million annually.

Florida is living proof that growth and environmental preservation can accompany one another. We need not submit to the negative proposition that progress must somehow be stopped to save the environment. The power companies of Florida, like similar companies throughout the country, are seeking -- and finding -- ways to achieve continued growth and improved living standards.

EMPTY STOMACHS AND COMMUNISM

Columnist Bruce Biossat in the Annapolis Evening Capital has given some comparative figures on food production in communist versus noncommunist nations. Anyone who wishes to eat regularly may find Mr. Biossat's information of interest. While communist nations are great talkers, when it comes to "land reform", they are consistently the world's worst farm producers.

"Not too long ago", observed Mr. Biossat, "48 per cent of the Soviet labor force was still engaged in farming ..." In the United States today, only 6 per cent of the total labor force works on farms. And, out of our agricultural abundance, one fifth of all the cropland harvested in the United States produces for export. By contrast, in communist China, available food supplies, according to Mr. Biossat, "... have remained roughly constant since 1965, though China's population keeps growing. Agricultural production in noncommunist Asian nations, such as Thailand, has soared. History and the statistics show that communism and a full stomach rarely travel in the same company.

CRIME IN THE SUBURBS

Some persons argue that crime is caused by poverty and discrimination and that massive government expenditures in "inner city" areas would eliminate the conditions which cause crime and hence eliminate crime itself. Newly released statistics on the crime rate in Washington, D.C., area show that crime is by no means confined to poverty areas, and that therefore it cannot be eliminated simply by raising living standards.

The city of Washington has long been notorious for its high crime rate, but crime in its suburbs is now approaching Washington's rate. The crime rate in the suburban city of Alexandra actually surpassed Washington's in 1972.

Reported violent crimes such as murder and robbery increased 620 per cent in Washington's five major suburban jurisdictions between 1960 and 1971, while the population increased 58 per cent. In Washington itself the increase was 392 per cent, with the size of the population remaining stable.

These statistics have significance for the nation as a whole. It is a slur on good city people to say that crime is primarily confined to inner-city areas. It is running away from the problem to say that more government expenditures on so- called poverty programs would eliminate crime.

Instead we need more support for our law enforcement officers wherever they work, in city, suburb or rural area. We need judges who will be as concerned for innocent victims as they are for criminals' "rights." We need action by concerned citizens. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Phony CIA Credentials Used in Watergate Caper

WASHINGTON— The Watergate ringleaders apparently used phony credentials, which the Central Intelligence Agency authenticated, during their spying- sabotage operations against the Democrats.

Trusted sources have told us James McCord, while he was preparing to bug Democratic Party headquarters, flashed CIA papers identifying himself as "George Russell." Those who checked with the CIA were assured "George Russell" was a legitimate employe.

Other sources close to the Watergate investigation say that G. Gordon Liddy may also have used the same "George Russell" alias. These sources claim the FBI originally thought the Watergate break-in was a CIA operation.

The CIA, however, refused to cooperate with the FBI investigation. A memo, intended for FBI eyes only, reported: "It is recalled we specifically were requested by the CIA not to interview... two CIA employes, and instructions were issued to WFO (Washington Field Office) to this effect. One of the individuals had already been interviewed, and the second was not interviewed per the request of the CIA."

Another FBI memo, prepared for ex- White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman but never submitted to him, noted that Hunt and Liddy had "traveled extensively around the United States contacting former CIA employes for the purpose of setting up a security organization for the Republican Party dealing with 'political espionage.'"

CIA LINKS

Both E. Howard Hunt and James McCord are ex- CIA agents. The four Cubans caught with McCord in the Democratic lair, according to an FBI memo, had either "worked with or participated in CIA activities against the Castro government."

One of the Cubans, Bernard Barker, was reported to have told associates that he thought all along the Watergate operation had "the support of the Company." The "Company" is a term used by insiders to refer to the CIA.

In Miami, Hunt once went to the CIA's placement bureau to see a locksmith skilled in "lockpicking" and opening "a locked room." The CIA willingly provided him with a name.

When the FBI discovered Hunt was involved in the Watergate conspiracy, agent John Rule "Telephonically contacted" presidential assistant Alexander P. Butterfield for an explanation. Our sources say he was the White House liaison man with the CIA. An FBI memo states that Butterfield informed Rule that "Hunt was used... on 'highly sensitive, confidential matters' about nine months ago."

The first impulse of President Nixon's campaign chiefs was to blame the Watergate bugging operation on the CIA. Both Hunt and McCord balked at this suggestion and sent back angry word that they wouldn't "sit still" for this. They have testified under oath that Watergate was not a CIA operation.

But there is growing evidence of some kind of CIA involvement.

Footnote: Butterfield told my associate Joseph Spear that he doesn't remember being called by the FBI. He had "security responsibility" at the White House, he said, but was "not aware" that he was a designated CIA liaison official. McCord couldn't be reached, and the CIA would say only that "McCord is a retired employe and normally would not carry current identification."

GAG ORDER

Angry senators have charged that the White House had intervened with the National Transportation Safety Board to stop the release of reports that might embarrass the Nixon Administration.

The board is supposed to be an independent agency which investigates air accidents and oversees the performance of the Federal Aviation Administration. Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D— Wash., believes air safety should be kept out of politics.

He got assurances from board chairman John H. Reed on March 25, 1971, that "we do not yield one iota on independence, believe me. The board is completely independent. We try to be gentlemen in working with (The White House), but there is no intrustion beyond that independence line and if there is any influence I will be the first one up here to speak to you and members of the committee."

Magnuson has now been informed, however, that the White House ordered the board to cease issuing reports critical of the Administration.

In a scalding letter, Magnuson has written Reed: "I have received allegations that despite the assurance you personally provided the Committee on March 25, 1971, that on March 18, 1973, you called a meeting of members of the National Transportation Safety Board to discuss communications you had received from the White House staff regarding certain lawful functions of the Board.

"It has been alleged," continues the confidential letter, "on that occasion you, acting as Chairman of the Board, revealed that the White House staff had expressed displeasure with you and other members of the Board because of certain reports and recommendations adopted and made publically by the Board which were critical of the Department of Transportation and its Federal Aviation Administration.

"It has been charged that you were ordered, despite provisions of law to the contrary, to cease issuing such reports which might in any way be construed as critical of the Department of Transportation or the Executive Branch. Further, charges have been made that you informed members of the Board that unless the Board agreed to cease this activity...that members would be 'disciplined' by the White House. Magnuson demanded full particulars from Reed who, when contacted by us, refused to comment.

FBI in Field:
Missing Notes of Secret Meeting Key To Triple Yablonski Murder Paymasters

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON——— Melancholy as they are over the emasculation of their Bureau, it's nonetheless business as usual for the men of the FBI. And it's strange to learn that still high in the agency's priorities are the Yablonski murders. Daily, teams of special agents, with no restrictions on manpower, are out in the field in Tennessee and Kentucky still questioning, still probing and still seeking the top murder paymaster--- or paymasters.

There have been five confessions and five convictions on first- degree murder charges. Yet the specialists in this ghastly triple murder on Dec. 31, 1969, coordinated by the Justice Dept.'s Management- Labor Unit, are convinced there are higher- ups--- perhaps somewhere in the old United Mind Workers' (UMW) hierarchy.

Clues to what the FBI agents are seeking spring from an unreported conference of coal diggers union leaders held at 3 p.m., June 23, 1969, in the miners' legendary headquarters still stalked by the ghost of the Draconian John L. Lewis.

Some notes were taken that afternoon. But who jotted them down? Where are they? Just who was present that day? Why was the closed- door conference called? What significance is there in its assembling not long after Jock Yablonski broke with the Lewis sanhedrin and declared for the presidency of the small miners union---- but nonetheless one of the world's richest?

That morning there had been an official session of the UMW's International Executive Board. On the record there was little discussion of Yablonski's challenging Lewis's protege, W.A. "Tony" Boyle. Then about 12 board members were invited to a confidential meeting up in Boyle's office at 3 p.m.

Special federal agents now want to know who was there. Did someone say Yablonski should get it? Or, how do we take care of him for challenging the machine? Did someone say, "I'll take care of him"? Was that someone Albert Pass, the loner, the muscle squad chief of the "White Hat" bruisers of the neanderthal District 19? Did he say he would need $20,000--- which turned out to be $19,970?

Allegedly it was for the special Research and Information Fund of District 19. The "murder fund," this has been called by the state prosecution. Reportedly, this fund was discussed at the September 1968 quinquennial miners' convention in Denver.

Allegedly three men discussed creation of the research project--- Bill Turnblazer (then president of District 19), Albert Pass, and Boyle. Thus the so- called "murder fund" ostensibly was planned long before Yablonski decided to challenge the hierarchy. Thus how could it have been motivated by the decision to kill a man who was one of the convention leaders?

Well, Turnblazer says there was no such conversation.

Thus there could not have been a "research" fund as early as this more fraternal moment. The money was moved by Boyle through the union's National Bank here long after Yablonski declared against the regulars.

But there's more here than even an Agatha Christie script could match. Boyle beat Yablonski. Why then was this tragic man and his family murdered after the election results? What was he about to expose? There's much more Sherlock Holmes "Valley of Fear" intrigue yet to be revealed. Perhaps that's why the FBI men are still in the field.

We'll get a glimpse of some of it when Albert Pass goes to trial on June 4, in Erie, Pa., on first- degree murder charges. Grimly it could be not much more than old Hatfield- McCoy mediation coming out of the barrel of a gun. But it could reach up into the hierarchy of the old union--- through which passed some $10 million into District 19 alone in a decade, I'm told. And where there is this much money there is that much greed. It all has a Watergate touch.

One string leads to another in the skein. And the union president Arnold Miller, swept in on the wave of revulsion against the ghoulishness and corruption, thinks so highly of the Yablonski case special state prosecutor, Philadelphia's Richard Sprague, that he (Miller) has written to President Nixon urging him to name Sprague as the special prosecutor in the Watergate fantasy.

Miller is moving swiftly. He has been on small local picket lines and at large national traditional fund- raising banquets. He is the favorite of the old Walter Reuther band in the United Auto Workers, some of whom say they helped finance his fight on Boyle. And he has done the unexpected by intervening in the National Maritime Union (NMU) election against the respected incumbent president Shannon Wall. Miller has backed the ultra- militant New York hospital local '1199" which he helped in the Clinch Valley Clinic Hospital, Richlands, Va.

By the time the miners meet in their national convention this year, Miller will be a national figure.

And perhaps we'll have the answer to the most vicious mystery in labor history.

BERNIE— The city council Monday night signed a contract with the rural fire department to provide fire service three years. Service will become available as soon as the fire truck being reconditioned is returned to the city. Cost of the reconditioning is being born by the rural fire district.

Aldermen installed at council meeting

DEXTER — Aldermen Eldon Cooper, James T. Williams and Jack Smarr were installed to the city council Monday night by City Clerk George McCracken. Smarr replaces Lehman Godwin. Williams was elected chairman of the board of aldermen.

Mayor Willis Conner appointed Richard Miller chairman of the water and sewer committee. Robert Curtis and Eldon Cooper are to serve on the committee.

President of the Retail Merchants David Agey, requested free parking in the downtown area for Saturdays only for eight weeks, beginning May 12 through July 7. The council approved the request providing Agey check with the majority of the merchants to see that they are in agreement.

Virgil Gilkey representing Mo-Ag Flying Service asked to submit a bid to spray Dexter for mosquitoes. The company plans to use Batex-4, a moderate toxic chemical harmless to humans and approved by the University of Missouri. The price would be $1 per acre if the company furnishes material and 50 cents per acre if the city provides material. The city would be sprayed three times. Gilkey also requested that a letter to the council be filed with the FAA in Jefferson City should his company be selected. Mayor Conner asked that the Mo-Ag Representative meet with the Street Alley and police committee for discussion of the bid. The matter will be discussed at the next regular council meeting.

An application for a city license for the J. R. Angle Plumbing and Heating Co. was approved.

Mayor Conner reported he had discussed a new contract with the Landon Brown Oil Co. for bulk gas for the city. The price would be $20 for regular and $21 for ethel at one and one-half cents above the company cost.

The Cottonbelt Railroad agreed to smooth out the railroad crossing at East Stoddard Street.

Jaycees host meeting on juvenile justice

"Our youth is the most volatile, the most precious natural resource we have," Paul A. Sundet of Columbia, a member of the Task Force on Juvenile Delinquency, Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, told a citizens conference on juvenile justice hosted by the Sikeston Jaycees Monday night at Sikeston High School.

Sundet was introduced by Joe Welborn of Bloomfield, conference chairman of Region 14, including Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Sundet said he wanted to talk about ecology, the preservation of the highest quality of life for our youth, our best natural resource, and began by informing the group of the problems existing in Missouri concerning juvenile justice.

The first problem, Sundet said, is that Missouri has no statewide plan for delinquency prevention. For example, there is no juvenile justice counterpart to the state health department. To date, Missouri has had only after- the- fact institutions.

Secondly, while many programs deal with treatment, there is little co-ordination among programs to carry them out successfully. "There is effort, but it is not producing," Sundet said.

Thirdly, he stated, there are few existing standards for juvenile programs and no one in power to set needed standards.

The lack of compensation, money- wise, leads to Missouri's inability to get good staff members for juvenile programs. Not only is the pay inadequate, but training for juvenile officers is "haphazard". There is no co- ordination and no supervised training for juvenile personnel.

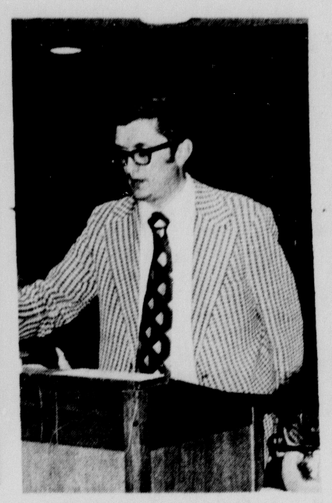

The sixth problem Sundet cited is that much of the treatment and main prevention methods are outmoded and inadequate. "We don't know what to do or how to do it."

According to Sundet, Senate Bill 191 now before the Senate Budget Control Committee, will set up the Divison of Youth Services and give the state responsibility for the question of delinquent prevention.

The bill will try to co-ordinate the development of delinquency prevention and control. It will establish policies, procedures, standards governing the state and local delinquency prevention, control and rehabilitation programs.

Paul A. Sundet

Ronald L. Larkin

Ronald L. Larkin of Jefferson City, assistant director of juvenile programs, Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, described the ideal juvenile correctional system as that of taking a delinquent child and changing his behavior and attitudes.

A study of the juvenile system, Larkin said, revealed that although the philosophy of treatment for juveniles requires the Judge to act as a wise parent, many judges disagreed with the philosophy. Larkin said treatment depends upon the geographical area the juvenile is in.

Declaring Missouri's treatment system inadequate, Larkin said the average juvenile officer spends approximately 15 minutes a month with each juvenile case. In the state training school, 65 juveniles have been sleeping in one room – not exactly the atmosphere needed to change a child's behavior and attitudes.

"The goal is to take children and equip them to 'make it' in society," he stated.

"You cannot change attitudes by putting juveniles in an artificail situation far away from their homes and family," Larkin said. At Boonville, $20,000 is being spent per child per year, with no success. "There are better ways to spend money in areas of juvenile correction."

Larkin explained that Senate Bill 193, now before the Senate Education Committee, will provide tools to school systems to get at the family problem. The bill will establish a Division of Pupil Personnel Services in the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. The division includes counseling and consultation with parents and staff members on learning problems and guidance programs for pupils.

A challenge was made to the group by John Vargas of Sedalia, director of Project Juvenile Concern, a program sponsored the Missouri Jaycees. Vargas, a former juvenile delinquent helped by a Jaycee member, asked the group take "a definite step in the right direction."

He challenged them to get informed and write their representative about their personal feelings on what is being done for juveniles in this area.

Menz injured

Kay Menz, 25, of Bell City Route One received slight injuries about noon Monday when she stepped in front of a post office truck on Malone Avenue at the intersection of Malone and Kingshighway.

Police said the truck, driven by Lee A. Nabor, 109 Luther St., was westbound at the time of the accident. The woman apparently stepped off the curb without looking.

She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released after being treated for scratches.

Police said no arrests were made.

Uhr will inspect businesses in Chaffee to see that all are safe for operating a business and not a fire hazard. Each business will be required to purchase a $1 certificate from Uhr each year stating that the business has been inspected and is safe.

For the first six months Uhr will work five days a week and receive $160 a month, including the $25 a month he now receives as fire chief. After the six months end, he will work two days a week at $20 a day.

The council decided to start spraying for mosquitoes in the Chaffee area as soon as possible.

I-55 reopened to traffic

Interstate highway 55 has been reopened to traffic, according to Lionel Murray, district 10 engineer of the highway department.

Murray said the southbound lane was reopened Monday night and the north bound lane reopened at 9 a.m. today. The heavy winds Monday night delayed the reopening, he added.

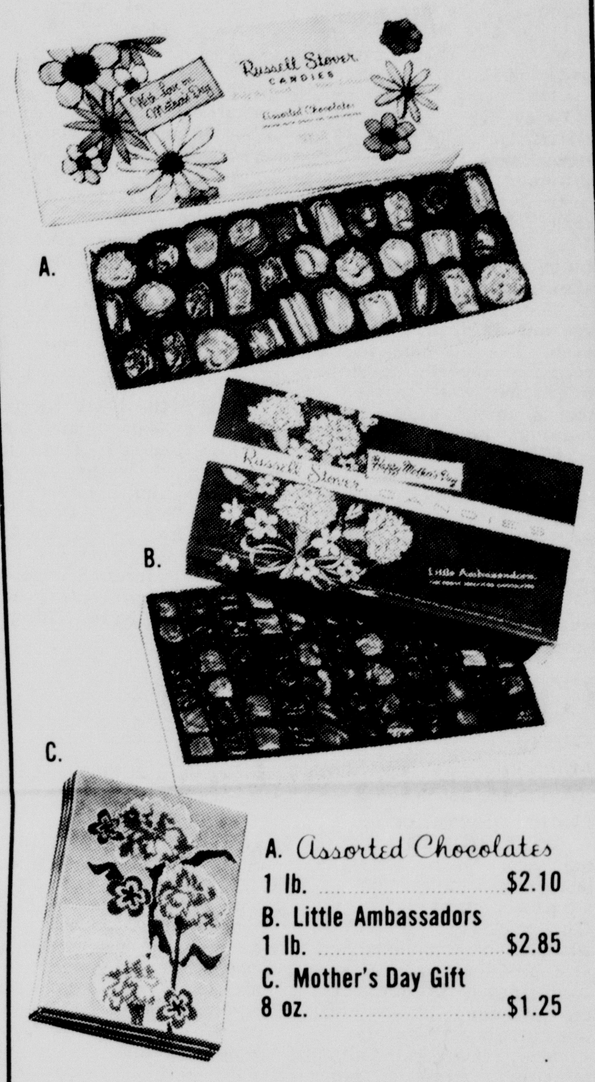

Heavy winds or more rain could close the highway again, Murray said.

Ann Landers

No banker should speak of clients

Dear Ann Landers: When you answered that lad from Plainfield who complained about his mother's cooking, you missed a golden opportunity. Instead of telling him that hospitality is more important than food, why didn't you tell him to learn to cook? Pioneering in the kitchen can be fun.

While punching cows in the West, I was amazed at the men who could whip up a meal in no time at all. We had sheepherder spuds, sourdough biscuits, smooth, lump- free gravy, beautiful steaks and delicious coffee. When I started to cook my flapjacks were like linoleum squares, but when you begin like that, you've got to get better.

Please tell your teen- age readers a world of adventure awaits them in the kitchen. A guy who can cook is ahead of the pack for reasons that may not come clear to him for many years.--- Bar U Ranch, Sublette, Illinois

Dear Bar U: These days a man who can't cook is in trouble. If he has a working wife it's darned near mandatory. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I saw an advertisement in a respectable newspaper for "oils" that promised to awaken "animal instincts and arouse passion in males." I read the ad carefully. The "oils" are made of whale blubber and secretions from skunk glands.

For $10 plus tax you can get one- third of an ounce of each. The ad said the oils release some sort of mysterious odor that will "awaken the male's animal desires with a sensuous power of a wave crashing upon the shore."

I can't imagine a respectable newspaper taking such an ad unless the product is legitimate. If it works it could solve my biggest problem.

Please tell me if the stuff will do any good.--- Unlucky In Love

Dear Unlucky: The oils will do a lot of good--- for the company that sells them. They will get rich from suckers who should know better.

Dear Ann Landers: We live in a small community where everyone knows everyone else. At a dinner party last night a banker had a few extra drinks and started to talk about people who were having financial problems. The more he talked the more irritated I became. Finally I told him that a banker should honor a code of ethics in the same way that a doctor is expected to. In other words, "Keep your mouth shut about your clients."

His wife became angry--declared that money is nonpersonal and in no way can it be compared with a person's medical problems. She insisted that almost every businessman enjoys talking about his investments, his profits and losses. In fact, she said, "Money is the sum and substance of most male conversation." She was extremely articulate but I still think she was wrong. Your opinion, please?--- Weston, Mass.

Dear Weston: Some clods enjoy talking about their operations, their sex life and other personal subjects. This doesn't make it acceptable.

A banker who fails to respect the confidences of his customers violates a basic principle of business ethics and good judgment. It's one thing for a person to talk about his own financial status, but it's quite another story when a banker gossips about his customers.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Richland CTA will honor two retiring teachers

ESSEX— The Community Teachers Association of Richland Public Schools will hold its annual program honoring retirees and other teachers Thursday at the school.

During the program, the retiring president will give remarks concerning the past school year and, after new officers are elected, the incoming president will express his views on things he hopes to see accomplished.

The program will begin with a prayer of thanks by the Rev. Doyle Corlew, elementary school counselor, and will be followed by a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Guests will be introduced and a music program presented before the presentation of gifts.

The social committee for this event includes Betty Dixon, school nurse; Shirley Kelso, Doris Hedspeth and Edra Sutton, elementary teachers; and Kay Davis, home economics teacher of Richland High School.

The CTA will honor Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Rhodes who spent a number of years teaching in the school system. Others to be recognized include teachers leaving to accept new positions and those with six or more years of service.

Part of the program will be dedicated to the bus drivers and custodians who have spent a number of years in service to the school and community.

Twister overturns mobile home

A Twister which dipped down three miles south of Essex sometime between 6:15 and 6:45 Monday overturned and mangled this mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Corlew. The couple were at his parents home in Essex when the tornado hit. The twister, which reportedly came through the woods, did not damage two other unoccupied mobile homes nearby. Wet fields continue to delay farm work

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — It was the same old story for Missouri farmers the past week — continuing rain and wet fields all but eliminated farm work.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said there was only a day suitable for field work in all areas except the Bootheel.

Corn planting was reported three per cent complete, compared to 30 per cent a year ago. Planting was 10 per cent complete in the Bootheel.

The service reported the seeding of oats virtually finished, with numerous reports indicating farmers will not sow all the oats they intended.

Wheat was reported in fair condition throughout the state, with 10 per cent of the crop headed, as compared to 31 per cent a year ago.

Commemorative stamp sale marks Truman birthdate

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The laying of a presidential wreath on the grave of Harry S. Truman and the first sale of a commemorative stamp will mark what would have been the 89th birthday of the nation's 33rd President.

President Nixon designated Postmaster General E. T. Klassen to lay the wreath, at 10:30 a.m. CDT, in a private ceremony at the Truman Library.

Klassen also was a speaker for the ceremonial first sale of the eight-cent stamp, on the front steps of the library at 11 a.m.

The stamp is classed as a verticle jumbo and bears a Truman portrait based on a picture taken by a Kansas City photographer, Leo Stern.

Stamp collectors from around the country converged on the library to buy official first-day covers. The stamps and firstday cancellations were available at other post offices in Independence and at a mobile station parked at the library. The stamps will go on sale elsewhere Wednesday.

Truman died Dec. 26 after more than six years of frail health. It was not quite 20 years since he had returned to Independence from Washington, where he was a senator, vice president and president.

The annual birthday party in his honor, started by some long-time Kansas City cronies soon after he came home, was held again Monday on a somewhat different note but still in an atmosphere of good cheer.

It marked the founding of the annual Harry S. Truman Good Neighbor Award; and the first one went to Earl Warren, retired chief justice of the United States.

"Nothing could be more symbolic of his life," Justice Warren said in his acceptance speech. "He knew that to have a peaceful world we have to have a world of good neighbors. No man of my age will go down in history as more a man of peace."

Warren himself was cited for fostering "a feeling of neighborliness among all mankind in the spirit of Harry Truman."

Henry Talge, the man who started and pays for the birthday parties, said he already has arranged to carry the commemorative luncheons through the 100th anniversary of Truman's birth. The 81-year-old philanthropist made millions selling automobile accessories and making kitchen gadgets.

Besides setting up the good neighbor award through a foundation named for Eddie Jacobson, Truman's partner in an illstarred haberdashery in downtown Kansas City, Talge also gave eleven giant volumes of editorial tributes to the Truman Library. The editorials were published at the time of Truman's death.

The good neighbor award also carries a $1,000 gift to the library, which was the former president's main project after he returned home.

About 400 attended the first commemorative luncheon, a somewhat larger crowd than in former years. Fifteen men answered the traditional roll call of "Battery D,' made up of men who served with Truman when he was an artillery captain in France.

Debate underway on reorganization measure

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House got down to debate today on a government reorganization measure that a government research expert says gives the governor the "latitude necessary to achieve improvement."

Robert P. Knuth, research director for the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, a nonprofit research agency, told House members Monday that the 40-page House substitute for a 240-page Senate bill gives the legislature a check on reorganization but still gives the governor wide authority to streamline government.

Knuth and Reps. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, and Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, explained the bill for two hours. Volkmer sponsored the House bill not yet acted upon and Holt is the House reorganization chairman.

Reorganization was approved by the voters last August in the form of a constitutional amendment that called for the state's 100 agencies to be reorganized under 13 departments and the Office of Administration.

The House measure reduces the number of agencies reporting to the governor to 45, Volkmer said.

The bill sets forth three levels of transfers and allows the department directors and the governor to begin Oct. 1 on the transfers. According to the constitutional amendment, reorganization must be implemented by July 1, 1974.

"The House committee substitute follows generally the plan developed after more than two years of study by the state reorganization commission," Knuth said.

"The substitute assigns agencies and programs to the various departments on a functionally realistic basis, provides department heads with sufficient authority to get the job done and concentrates the governor's supervisory role in general to officials with major responsibilities," he said.

Under the type 1 transfer approach, the governor would appoint director for the six departments and appoint the boards and commissions that would run the other departments. The departments with directors will be Agriculture, Consumer Affairs and Licensing, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Social Services and Revenue, as well as the Office of Administration which is not called a department.

Under types 1 and 2 of transferring, the department director could make the appointments within his department and the governor will abolish or create positions by executive order.

The legislature would have 60 days, after it convenes, to disapprove the order. If there is no action, the order stands.

The Senate Reorganization Bill requires Senate advice and consent for division heads in some departments, while the house substitute does not. The Senate bill also calls for an interim committee to act on the governor reorganization recommendations.

The House measure sets a maximum salary of $30,000 a year for six department directors and the commissioner of administration, who now receives $25,000. The lowest paid department director now receives $16,000, the same as the lieutenant governor. The bill also calls for deputy directors for most departments.

Several representatives pointed out that the director' salaries would be higher than those of elected officials except the governor.

When boards, divisions and commissions are transferred, the legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee must give approval for altering appropriations.

The House measure contains a budgeting requirement similar to a "zero-based" budgeting bill vetoed by the governor.

If the House and Senate can't agree on reorganization by next Jan. 1, Holt said, the constitutional amendment lets the governor carry it out.

The bill doesn't change retirement systems.

Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carthage, criticized the "adjournment night compromise" last April 30 which created too many departments and too much consent authority for the senate.

There should have been only 10 departments as the Little Hoover Commission suggested, Young said.

The departments, and some of the things they will include, under the House substitute:

Agriculture — All employes will be under the merit system. The department will retain most of its present duties and will be given the state Horticulural Society and state Milk Board.

Conservation — Headed by a commission appointed by the governor. Will be basically the same as it is now constituted. Will have jurisdiction over the state Boat Commission.

Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing — takes over all duties of the former Department of Business and Administration, with the exception of some given to the Office of Administration. The department will have a Division of Consumer Protection, now handled by the attorney general's office.

Also in this department will be the Public Service Commission, state Banking Board, Savings and Loan Commission the Administrative Hearing Commission, Division of Finance, Division of Credit Unions, Savings and Loan Division, insurance Division, Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Tourism Commission, Division of Professional Registration, Human Rights Commission, Division of Weights and Measures, and Sports Complex Authorities.

Department of Elementry and Secondary Education — this department will be nearly the same, with junior colleges transferred to the Department of Higher Education. The Elementary and Secondary Education Department will continue to administer federal-state aid for vocational programs in junior colleges.

Department of Higher Education — a coordinating board replaces the Commission on Higher Education. It will approve degree programs, approve establishment of any new state supported colleges, establish guidelines on appropriations and admissions.

The state Poultry and Fruit Experiment Stations will be assigned to the University of Missouri. The state Library is assigned to the coordinating board.

Highway Department — Controlled by the highway commission. The department remains as it is now, but takes in the various bridge commissions.

Department of Labor and Industrial Relations — Headed by a commission appointed by the governor. Under this department will be the divisions of Employment Security, Workmen's Compensation, and it takes over duties of the Board of Rehabilitation, Division of Industrial Inspection, Mine Inspection and state Board of Mediation.

Department of Mental Health — this will be similar to the current Division of Mental Health, controlled by the Mental Health Commission which will appoint a director. The Missouri Institute of Psychiatry in St. Louis will be assigned to the department, which is allowed to contract to the University of Missouri for training of psychiatrists.

Department of Natural Resources — Going to this department will be the Air Conservation Commission, clean water commission, state Environmental Improvement Authority, Oil and Water District Commission, Oil and Gas Council, Land Reclamation Commission, Atomic Energy Commission functions the commission will be abolished) and Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation.

Department of Pbulic Safety — The governor shall appoint a department director as well as the highway patrol superintendent.

Licensing of motor vehicles will be shifted to this department from the revenue department. The Department of Public Safety also will have the Liquor Control Division, state Fire Marshal's office, National Guard, and will take over duties of the Law Enforcement Assistance Council and Highway Reciprocity Commission.

Department of Revenue — will be nearly the same except for losing the licensing function, and will take over duties of the state tax commission.

Department of Social Services — will have the divisions of Health, Welfare, Veterans Affairs, Nursing Homes, Corrections and Board of Training Schools, Division of Probation and Parole, Housing Development Commission and Crippled Childrens' Services.

Department of Transportation — to be controlled by a commission. Assigned to this department will be the St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, Kansas City Area Transportation Authority, BI-State Development Agency and Aviation Division.

Office of Adminstration — This office came into being last Jan. 1. The commissioner is appointed by the governor and is in charge of suprlus property, custodial servi es, personnel, construction, budgeting and car and airplane pools.

Secretary astonished by Long family accusations

BOWLING GREEN, Mo. (AP) — Miss Helen Dunlop, secretary and companion to the late former U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long whose death is being investigated, said Monday she was "hurt and astonished" because of charges made against her by the senator's widow Florence Long.

Mrs. Long has filed a $3.25 million alienation of affection suit against Miss Dunlop, 47, who worked for the senator for 26 years.

During an interview here Monday, Miss Dunlop said she was never intimate with Long and she did not use her affections to help break up the Long marriage.

Authorities are investigating the possibility that Long was poisoned prior to his death Nov. 6, 1972. Miss Dunlop told police in March that minutes before he died, Long told her he thought he had been poisoned by a box of candy sent him as a gift.

The disclosure led authorities to exhume Long's body from a Hannibal, Mo., cemetery last week and the contents of his stomach were being examined to determine if he was poisoned.

Members of the Long family have said they believe he died of a tumor.

Long, 64, was U.S. senator from 1960 to 1968 before losing a Democratic primary battle to Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton. He had been a state senator and lieutenant governor.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

Husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. [Ephesians 5:29]

PRAYER: O God, help us in our homes to exercise Christian goodwill, tolerance, and understanding toward one another, irrespective of what our emotional reactions may be. In the name of the Christ. Amen.

What's the law?

The case of the exiled wife

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sarah made two very bad mistakes. The first was in leaving her husband Jethro, who very difficult to get along with, and the second was asking him to take her back.

"Sure I'll take you back," he told her, "but for awhile you're going to have to live out in the bunkhouse with the hired help until I think you've properly repented. Out there you'll be able to repent in leisure for having run away in haste."

Sarah, however, had no intention of living in the bunkhouse, and as soon as she heard her husband's pronouncement, she left him again. This time, however, he immediately started an action to end their marriage on the grounds of his wife's desertion.

"I'm a generous man," he confessed to the judge, "and, while I offered to take her back once, I'm not going to do it twice. This time, Sarah's had it."

"Exiling me to the bunkhouse answered Sarah, "was hardly what you would call taking me back. On the contrary, it was like sending me to Siberia. No wife has to take that."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you end the marriage because of Sarah's desertion?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a wife deserts a husband and offers to return, she is entitled to be taken back under terms that are not inconsistent with her self-respect, such as having to live out in a bunkhouse with the hired help.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has nominated Zack F. Bettis, a St. Louis County Republican, as a member of the state Board of Education.

Subject to Senate confirmation, Bettis, 45, Town and Country, will replace F. Burton Sawyer of Kirkwood, who resigned.

Bettis is general staff manager of Southwestern Bell Co. in St. Louis.

He also is a board member of the Parkway School District in St. Louis County.

Bond also announced the appointment Monday of Howard Boeger, a Salisbury Republican, as Eastern District judge of the Chariton County Court.

Boeger, 56, a Salisbury farmer, will fill the unexpired term of Charles F. Elmore, who died.

Rivers continue slow recession

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mississippi Valley residents from Hannibal, Mo., to New Orleans are asking the question, "When will the river go down?"

More spring rain in northern Illinois and Missouri have pushed both the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers toward new crests but the river district office of the National Weather Service said the crests will fall short of the records experienced April 26.

Nevertheless the increased water runoff and subsequent high river stages are delaying the return of nearly 7,000 persons, estimated to have been forced from their homes by the swollen rivers in Missouri and Illinois.

Col. Ferd Anderson, the secretary of the Mississippi River Commission, said Monday that it will be at least June before floodwaters "recede sufficiently" in the lower Mississippi Valley—and that is barring any further rainfall.

The Missouri at St. Charles, where flood stage is 25 feet, is expected to rise to 30 feet by Wednesday, more than a foot from the 28.9 level recorded Monday.

The Mississippi River gauge at St. Louis read 37.1 feet Monday and is to reach 38 feet by Wednesday, a level 8 feet above flood stage. The Mississippi has been above flood at St. Louis since March 7.

The river was continuing its slow recession at points north of St. Louis.

The ban on commercial barge traffic on the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers continued except for a 17-mile portion of the river in the St. Louis area.

During a press conference here, Col. Anderson said 12.7 million acres of bottomland from Missouri to the mouth of the Mississippi were under water due to the flooding, resulting in $407 million in damages, mostly to farm land.

Of that amount, Anderson said, the Corps of Engineers estimated that 2.3 million acres were under water in Missouri and Illinois with $140 million in damages.

More than 5,000 have applied for low-interest loans and 1,500 have sought temporary housing, he said. The figures applied to the 81 counties and the City of St. Louis which were declared flood disaster areas in Missouri by President Richard Nixon last month.

Disaster center opens at Madrid

NEW MADRID — Between 50 and 60 applicants had registered within three hours Monday following opening at noon of a Federal Disasterr Assistance Center in the community building by the Office of Emergency Preparedness, according to Dan Sudbick.

Sudbick, of the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency of Denver, Colo., on assignment to OEP, has been in charge of a similar center for 11 days in Caruthersville. He said over 2,200 applications were received there from persons who had claims for flood losses in Pemiscot, Dunklin and New Madrid counties.

The Caruthersville office closed Saturday and the New Madrid office was opened to benefit those persons in the area who have been unable to get to Caruthersville or a disaster assistance center in Charleston.

A spokesman for the U. S. Small Business Administration said 4,000 applicants had been anticipated by his agency, however, it is now expected between 15,000 to 20,000 will be made.

Agencies represented at the center include SBA, Internation Revenue Service, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, New Madrid County Welfare department, Division of Employment Security, and volunteer workers who are assisting in taking applications.

The center is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and will probably remain in New Madrid until Thursday. Persons who have sustained flood losses and need assistance are urged to visit the center.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Antonio Barbosa made his Carnegie Hall debut with an all-Chopin program.

Barbosa was born in Joao Pessoa, Brazil, in 1943. In 1969 he took first prize in the National Piano Competition in Brasilia and came to the United States to continue piano studies at the Juilliard School.

He will make his London debut in November.

U.S. wins in O.T.

NEW YORK (AP) — Even in basketbrawl, there's a place for the little man.

Ernie DiGregorio of Providence, the littlest man on the floor, proved it Monday night as he sparked the U.S. squad to an 89-80 overtime victory over the touring Russian National basketball team before 15,734 at Madison Square Garden.

"Ernie sure got us going when we needed it, didn't he?" praised U.S. Coach Bob Cousy, a pretty fair little man in his own right. "He picked us up when we were in trouble, big trouble."

Ernie D. sank a pair of baskets in the final minute of regulation play to erase a 73-69 Russian lead, hit two baskets in overtime and set up two more to put the Americans out ahead, then stymied the Russians with his artful dribbling and ballhandling.

"As I've said before, Ernie is the best player—pound for pound—that I've seen in college this year. Some of the things he does are just amazing."

The Russian coach, Vladimir Kandrashin, was equally impressed.

"If we had him, we wouldn't lose any games," Kandrashin said.

From the time he re-entered the game, with 2:08 to go in regulation, up until the finish, Ernie D. was the whole show.

"At the end I felt I had to take over—and I did," said the six-foot All-American. That he did. His shooting was deadly, his passing brilliantly accurate, his dribbling dazzlingly deft.

In the overtime, with the U.S. squad safely in front, he ran circles around the Russians as they tried to take the ball away from him. None could catch him.

"I don't think any of them can take the ball away from me," he said afterwards, with more honesty than braggadocio. "It's not their style."

Ah, their style—basketbrawl.

"It's not quite basketball as we know and love it," said Cousy, smiling.

"Blatant, dirty fouls," said 69 center Len Elmore of Maryland. "They do everything they can get away with—elbows, grabbing your jersey, hitting in the back when you go for rebounds. It's brutal."

What the Russians lack in finesse—and they lack a lot—they make up for in power. Under the boards they can hold their own with anyone, but they do not have the finesse or agility of the Americans. So they concentrate on what they do best—hammer away under the boards until the ball drops through, or a foul is called.

"It's a rough game, but those are international rules and we agreed to play by them," Cousy said.

A total of 75 fouls were called on the two clubs. Eight players fouled out. Five of them were Russians, including the team star, Aleksandr Belov, who had 13 points.

DiGregorio led both clubs with 25 points and 11 assists. Barnes, in his best showing since injuring his knee in the NCAA semifinals, had 21 points, many on spectacular feeds from DiGregorio. Elmore had eight rebounds and Ron Behagen seven to paces the Americans, who outrebounded the visitors 32-28.

ABA playoffs stir roughness

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Rick Mount of the Kentucky Colonels, who picked up a black eye and stitched brow in last Saturday's game with the Indiana Pacers, says he hopes fisticuffs don't erupt again tonight in the fifth game of the American Basketball Association championship.

Last Saturday, when Indiana took the fourth game 90-86 to even the best-of-7 series, there were 42 turnovers, 47 fouls, and a second quarter fight between Mount and Donnie Freeman of the Pacers.

Because of the emotional defensive struggle in the playoff series, in which both teams have averaged fewer than 100 points a game, Mount is reluctant to predict calm.

"You just don't know," he said after practice Monday. "Playoff games are funny.

"With all that tension, it might break out again, especially considering the rivalry between Indiana and Kentucky."

Mount would not discount the importance of the concentration on defense.

In a championship playoff, he said, "you think more about defense. More and more, you're thinking about shutting your guy off."

Tonight, though, he said, the team that can get its offense going should pull ahead in the series.

"I think that's why we won the third game, Mount said. "We got the ball out, got some breaks and got some offense going in the fourth quarter."

The Colonels won that contest 92-88.

Pacers' Coach Bob Leonard said he believed Saturday's fracas between Mount and Freeman was an isolated incident.

"It wasn't really much," he said. "The big thing is not to let the fans get involved. That's what's concerning me."

Little league bans girls

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — When the Ypsilanti Little League plays its scheduled season openers today, 12-year-old Carolyn King won't be on the field.

Carolyn's bid to become the first girl to crack the roster of a Ypsilanti Little League team was halted late Monday when the league's managers, in an 11th-hour private meeting, decided to drop her from the league.

"We decided to drop Carolyn from the roster but to contine to fight in court to have her reinstated," said Bob Taylor, vice president of the group.

The Little League, with national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., has a rule banning girls.

"She's very good, that's the crime of the whole thing," Taylor said. "If she was a mediocre player you could say forget it, but she puts most 11 and 12-year-olds to shame."

A common complaint about the Little League program is that the adults who run it won't get out of the way and simply let the youngsters play their game. But in Carolyn's case, she was betrayed by her wouldbe contemporaries.

Of the 40 boys in the league, 23 voted to kick Carolyn out of the league. Nine voted to let her play, five abstained and three were not available when the vote was taken.

"There was a possibility the league would lose its charter and equipment and financial support," Taylor said. "We'd have hundreds of kids involved who couldn't play baseball.

"When it comes down to one kid versus 204, we have to consider the 204."

Pirates bomb L.A.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston's John Curtis had some unprintable things to say about the weather in Chicago Monday night, so it's a good thing he wasn't working at his off-season job as a sports writer at the time.

Instead, the 25-year-old lefthander was doing his pitching thing for the Boston Red Sox. And what he did was limit the Chicago White Sox to five hits and snap their nine-game American League winning streak 4-1.

"I was cursing under my breath when it started to rain," Curtis said after some early-inning precipitation.

But the wetness turned out to be a blessing in disguise, soaking the artificial turf in White Sox Park just enough to cause the Chicago outfielders some fifth-inning grief.

Orlando Cepeda led off with what looked like a single, but center fielder Ken Henderson slipped chasing the ball and Cepeda limped into second. With two on and two out, John Kennedy also hit what appeared to be a single. This time, right fielder John Jeter lost his footing and by the time he recovered Kennedy had a triple and the Red Sox had two runs.

In the only other American League action, Baltimore trimmed California 8-2. New York at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 5-4, San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Houston blanked Montreal 6-0, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati 3-2 in 14 innings and the New York Mets beat Atlanta 7-2. San Francisco and St. Louis were not scheduled.

It was Curtis' first start since April 19 and his first triumph and first complete game of the season. He also pitched his way out of the bullpen and back into the Red Sox' starting rotation.

While the White Sox' streak came to an end, Houston stretched its string of victories to nine as Dave Roberts hurled a six-hitter in blanking Montreal.

Pittsburgh unloaded on Los Angeles ace Don Sutton with solo home runs by Willie Stargell, Dave Cash, Richie Hebner, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver to beat the Dodgers, wiping out a 4-1 deficit in the process.

San Diego, which had beaten the Cubs only 10 times in 51 meetings and were 0-3 this season, whipped Chicago behind Bill Greif's two-hit pitching. Fred Kendall and Dave Campbell each collected a single and double and drove in two runs while Greif blanked the Cubs until Jose Cardenal's eighth-inning homer.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson ordered an intentional pass to rookie Mike Rogodzinski, with two on in the 14th inning, but reliever Pedro Borbon also walked Mike Ryan on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run for Philadelphia.

The Mets finally scored some runs for Tom Seaver—six in the eighth inning—and ended a five-game skid by beating Atlanta.

Baltimore scored five unearned runs in defeating Oakland behind Doyle Alexander's five-hit pitching.

West returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "I just may have to take the ball up more," said massive Wilt Chamberlain, pondering a more active role offensively when his Los Angeles Lakers try to even their National Basketball Association championship series against the New York Knicks in tonight's nationally televised fourth game at Madison Square Garden.

"I don't know whether I can," said the 36-year-old Chamberlain, a powerful force defensively and under the boards in the first three games, "but I'll give as much as I can.

"That's all you can do—give what you have."

The Knicks grabbed a 2-1 lead in the series by beating the Lakers 87-83 in Game Three Sunday, as Los Angeles superstar Jerry West sat out the fourth quarter with hamstring pulls in both his legs.

West expects to be back in action tonight. After being treated on Monday by Dr. Robert Kerlan, the LA team physician, West said, "I feel a lot better...I am confident I will be able to play Tuesday night."

West's presence will certainly make a difference. As Chamberlain said Sunday, when the Lakers stayed close but could never overhaul the Knicks in the final period, "We're so used to going to Jerry in the fourth quarter, it puts a lot of pressure on us to have him sitting on the bench."

But the biggest difference could be an offensively aroused Chamberlain. In the first three games, the huge pivotman has concentrated on defense and rebounding, hauling down nearly 18 rebounds per game and clogging the middle on defense. But he's taken only 18 shots from the floor, and is averaging a meager 7.3 points per game.

"I'm just happy he hasn't gone to the hoop more," offered New York center Willis Reed. "We've been in enough foul trouble as it is."

"The Knicks play such good defense, sometimes I just couldn't go to the hoop," offered Chamberlain following Sunday's loss, which saw the Lakers score their fewest points in playoff history.

New York Coach Red Holzman, using Jerry Lucas and even rookie John Gianelli off the bench to spell Reed, managed to keep a fresh man going against Chamberlain, the only player on the two teams to play every minute in all three games.

"It looked like everyone was on me out there," said Wilt.

Reed came up with an outstanding performance, scoring a team-high 22 points, hauling in 10 rebounds and calling it his "most important game" since the Knicks' championship season of 1970. Reed has been slowed by leg injuries since then.

Did going up against the massive Chamberlain provide special problems for Reed?

"Sure he intimidates," Reed conceded. "When you go up for a shot inside against Wilt, you have to think about him blocking it.

Big Red trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Lineman Roger Finnie of the New York Jets was traded Monday to the St. Louis Cardinals for offensive tackle Vern Emerson, it was announced here.

Emerson, 6-5 and 260 pounds, played three years with the Cardinals before sitting out the last season in retirement.

Finnie, 6-3 and 245 pounds, has been with the Jets for four seasons, playing both offense and defense. He spent most of the last season as a guard.

The National Football League deal involved only the players and no cash.

First aid is fun

Sometimes first aid can be fun, especially if you happen to be the "victim" of a bandage contest at a Boy Scout camporee such as the one held over the weekend near Oran by Okeechobee District Boy Scouts. Here, Steve Dixon, Sikeston Troop 43, takes obvious delight in the attempts of Doug Reynolds and other scouts to care for his "injuries". Troops participating in the three- day event were Troop 25, Benton; Troops 32 and 35, Charleston; Troops 41, 43, and 44, Sikeston. Troop 42, Bertrand; and Troop 49, Morehouse. 9 injured in area traffic accidents

Nine persons were injured Monday in three area traffic accidents, the highway patrol said today.

Stephen Charles Howery, 20, of Maryland Heights suffered minor injuries at 9:15 a.m. when he made a left turn of Highway 51 one-half mile south of Perryville into the path of a car driven by Donald Cassel, 36, of Perryville.

Howery was treated and released from Perry County Hospital in Perryville.

A tractor - trailer truck and a car collided at 8:35 p.m. on Highway 60 six miles east of Poplar Bluff.

The accident occurred when the tractor- trailer rig, driven east by Virgil Jones, 39, of Centralia, Ill., attempted to pass two or three cars and struck a car driven east by Bert Carter, 26, of Poplar Bluff as he was making a left turn. The car was struck in the left side.

Carter received minor injuries and a passenger, Carol Ann Nelson, 22, of Poplar Bluff suffered a minor concussion. They were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Six persons were injured at 9:20 a.m. when a car and a pickup truck rounded a curve on Highway 77 four miles north of Diehlstadt at the same time. The car, driven north by James Smith, 27, of St. Charles, went into a skid, crossed the center line and struck the pickup, driven south by Buford Warren, 57, of Gordonville.

Receiving minor injuries in the pickup were Warren and Lois Frances Warren, 57, of Gordonville.

Smith, Diane Smith, 26, Tommy Smith, 1, and Marinda Riefle, 5, all of St. Charles, suffered minor injuries. The injured were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Handy jailed on break-in charge

Daniel Eugene Tippy, 205 S. Handy, was in city jail this morning charged with the April 26 break-in of the Paul Trexler home, 854 Cambridge Drive.

Tippy allegedly broke into the house while the Trexlers were away on vacation and took eight guns valued at $1,000 and a set of diamond rings valued at $1,200.

Detective Dan Hinton said he took a fingerprint from the gun case that matched Tippy's. Lt. Leonard Campbell recovered one of the guns.

Other arrests announced today include Earnie Adams, Smith Street, for public intoxication and Lawrence Tate, 126 N. Handy, on two counts of peace disturbance and assault and battery.

DOWNTOWN SIKESTON

Senator says 9% of legislation is harmful

JEFFERSON CITY — State Senator A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, has a modest proposal for the Missouri General Assembly: adjourn immediately.

Not that the legislature's job is done by any means. Between now and June 15, final action will have to come on major issues such as state reorganization, tax relief for the elderly, and $1.9 billion in state appropriations. There is also the matter of over 300 other bills on the calendar for debate.

So the question is why Sen. Jones, Minority Floor Leader and a respected veteran of 22 years in the General Assembly, wants to pack up and go home. As a matter of fact, Jones made the same suggestion back in January when the legislature was just getting started.

The reason for the suggestion, Jones told the Missouri Press recently, is that "90 percent of the bills are harmful."

"Sixty percent of them are directly harmful to the people," Jones said, "and 30 per cent are the bills the state budget cannot afford. Almost all of the bills on the calendar are terrible."

Jones suggests the General Assembly pass the state reorganization bill, a modest appropriations bill, and a few bills necessary to bring the state into compliance with federal regulations, such as welfare reform. Then he says they ought to pack up and go home.

Moreover, he thinks the U.S. congress ought to adjourn six months of the year.

There's a method to this seeming madness. Jones says that most of the measures passed by the state and federal government either "clutter up the statute books" or impinge upon individual freedom.

Jones, who says he has a "Scandinavian concept of freedom", sees a threat of "Big Brotherism" in most of the laws being considered.

"The Scandinavians think a man ought to be totally free unless he interferes with someone else's freedom.," he says. "I ought to be free to take off my clothes and run nakedup High Street (the street running in front of the Capitol) if I want."

Jones is also concerned about the effect of regulatory laws on the free enterprise system. Such regulations, he says, do not effectively control big businesses and at the same time "are creaming the little man."

Although he says there are examples in "any field you can name," he cited agriculture as one example. "The big farmers are not being hurt by government regulations," he says, "but the man with a ten acre farm has been regulated out of business."

"I'm not a conservative," Jones insists, "I'm a civil libertarian. I believe in total freedom. If people can't make the best of a free chance, then they can go straight to hell."

Jones is proud that there have been fewer licensing laws passed in Missouri than most other states during the past 22 years because of his presence in the General Assembly.

What would motivate a man like Sen. Jones, a lawyer and an independent businessman, to spend 22 years as a watchdog against encroachment of regulatory legislation? Is a crusade an inspirational call to public service?

"I do it as a hobby," Jones said seriously. "It's been an expensive hobby over 22 years."

Jones takes his "hobby" seriously, as he is one of the few legislators who takes the time to read every piece of legislation introduced in the General Assembly. His knowledge of the laws often leads other Senators to call upon him for a clarification of an item under debate. And if the bill is a regulatory law, most often he votes and speaks against the measure, sometime successfully, but more often unsuccessfully. A majority of the legislators feel that the state has a proper place in controlling abuses by business and industry.

At this stage of the session, Jones has another method to keep bill he doesn't like -- meaning 90 percent of them -- from reaching the floor for debate. He shows up early in the Senate sessions and stays late, to insure that legislative leaders don't try to "run the calendar." Unless someone like Sen. Jones objects, the President of the Senate can shuffle bills from the formal schedule for debate onto the informal schedule where they can be heard anytime. Since Jones doesn't want them heard, he usually objects to the procedure and brings it to a halt.

Jones places his faith in businessmen and not the state in controlling abuses. He worries about the atmosphere he calls "Naderism" in Washington, the view inspired by consumer advocate Ralph Nader which Jones sums up as: "Business is a terrible evil and if we eliminated business, we'd have a wonderful country."

"Everybody abuses," Jones says, "there's terrible abuse by criminals in this country and nobody seems to be doing anything about that."

Jones learned about criminal abuse first hand earlier in the legislative session when two men robbed him at gunpoint of $70 when he was home for the weekend. Jones fellow- Senators laughingly took note that he used his considerable skills as an orator to persuade the crooks to take his money and leave him his papers and his wallet.

It takes a brave man to propose that the legislature leave Jefferson City and go home, especially when you consider that it was at home that Jones was robbed.

The running battle between Gov. Bond and the General Assembly over fiscal responsibility has taken a couple of new turns.

The legislature, irate with Bond's veto of a zero- base budget bill, announced plans to sue the Governor over his veto of certain words in the $16.1 million emergency budget bill. The legislature will ask the court to force the Governor to follow the General Assembly's wording in approving state expenditures, fearing that otherwise the Governor could spend money wherever he wanted.

The Governor retaliated by charging that the Missouri House had already approved more than $50 million in programs that the state has no money for. The Governor hinted that if the legislature wants to spend money at that rate, then the legislature would have to take responsibility for raising taxes to pay for the new programs.

CONTINENTAL ELEGANCE—This classic country French room proves you needn't be a Frenchman to live like one. Waverly's all-cotton floral fabric in shades of wine and blue sets the atmosphere here, appearing in Austrian shades, below the window, and on the loveseat and dining chairs. Gracefully styled French provincial furniture further defines the continental look.

Appropriations bill to go to Senate floor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee continued work on the appropriations bill Monday night making final changes before submitting the bill to the Senate floor for debate later this week.

The only excitement occurred just before the committee voted to cut $544,779 from the funds for the Missouri Council on the Arts.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, questioned the $250,000 given to the St. Louis and Kansas City symphonies. Howard said the amounts should be more.

Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, objected loudly to Howard's suggestion saying the money was more than they should get.

"That's for the fat cats to get them off the hook," Webster said referring to the two symphonies.

When Howard persisted, Webster threatened with an amendment to take away the $500,000. Howard said no more.

The committee voted to appropriate $654,920 for the arts council, almost half the $1,301,699 in the governor's budget recommendation.

A brief party argument over funds for the Republican state auditor's office arose when Webster made a motion to restore cuts in the budget made when Gov. Christopher S. Bond was auditor.

New Madrid council airs flood problems

NEW MADRID — Problems created by flooding and their solutions were primary topics of a three and one- half hour City Council meeting Monday night.

Sam L. Hunter Jr., heading a delegation of approximately 75 citizens who filled the council room to overflowing, related to the board the problems besetting city residents during the past week.

Hunter pointed out that storm sewers and ditches were inadequate to handle the runoff water from heavy rains and that many would need to be enlarged and redesigned, particularly the main drainage ditches on Kingshighway and Riley Street.

He also pointed out the potential threat of water from the "dry run" area overflowing the ridge north of town and getting into the city as well as the need for pumps to alleviate that situation.

Alderman Bob Blom then told the gathering of the combined efforts of the city and the Army Corps of Engineers to fight the threat of flooding, stating that the mayor, aldermen, city employes and the Corps of Engineers had worked around the clock to obtain pumps from every possible place, preventing more serious flooding by these efforts.

He also stated that three additional 16- inch pumps had been located for possible purchase by the city. The council later approved purchase of the pumps at an estimated cost of $4,800.

In other business, night marshal Gene Lyles submitted his resignation and City Administrator Don Lloyd was authorized to take applications for a replacement. Lyles' resignation is effective May 14.

The mayor was authorized to execute a contract with the Department of Housing and Urban Development to implement a park and recreation program. The proposal calls for $59,657 to be spent on parks and recreation with the city to furnish one- half the cost.

The council approved results of the April 3 city election in which incumbent aldermen Bill Boyd of ward one, Ed LaValle of ward two and John A. Hunter of ward three were unopposed and re-elected.

Following adjournment of the old board, the council reconvened and new officers were sworn in.

Business handled by the new board included increasing the night marshal's salary to $100 per week and a board order requiring that, in the event a police officer was hired who was a nonresident, he would be required to become a resident within 30 days after being hired.

Tornadoes!

Tornado glows at Sunset

David Zeigenhorn, Sikeston High School correspondent to the Daily Standard, captured on film the awesome sight of the tornado that approached Sikeston Monday afternoon as the evening sun broke through the clouds long enough to highlight the violent twist in its funnel. In the series at left, Daily Standard photographer, Tim Ludwig, pictured the sequence as the same twister formed from a small bud at the base of a cloud and snaked to the ground to tear up trees and cause some property damage. The twister lifted and passed over Sikeston without causing any damage. The water tower in the sequence is at Morehouse.

Manuel Drumm appointed

Dement resigns as city attorney

City Attorney Kenneth Dement submitted a letter of resignation to the City Council Monday night, saying he will not be able to fill the post after June 1.

Attorney Manuel Drumm was appointed to replace Dement. Drumm is a former city attorney.

Dement said he must leave the post because he is building a new house on North Ridge Road about three- fourths of a mile outside the city. State law requires employes of cities the size of Sikeston to live inside the city limits.

Dement has been city attorney for one and a half years. He replaced Drumm, who had resigned from the office.

The council approved a two-man Economic Development Department Advisory Board consisting of City Manager Jim Huff and Board of Municipal Utilities Director Dick Inman.

The purpose of the board is to aid the industrial development director, when one is appointed.

The council approved a $1,000 grant to a summer recreation program to be supervised by volunteers from various civic clubs of the city. The funds will be used mainly to purchase equipment.

John Strinich, representing the Exchange Club, told the council that the program would last 12 weeks, June 2 to Aug. 18. The recreation program will feature a variety of sports ranging from swimming to tennis and will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays at the high school, junior high school and Lincoln School.

The council approved an ordinance allowing the City Court to raise fines to the legal maximum of up to $500.

Missouri Petroleum Co. of St. Louis was awarded the contract to sealcoat city streets with a bid of 26.5 cents per square yard. The only other bid — submitted by the Wilson McMullin Co. — was for 28 cents per square yard for what the council decided was a less satisfactory type of sealcoat.

In other action before the council, Buchmueller, Withworth and Faust Inc. was given an engineering contract for the proposed airport project, which calls for resurfacing the runway and upgrading lighting.

The council approved the paving of three streets, East Gladys from Selma to the dead end, Westgate from Malone to Compress Road and Garwood Street from Edward to dead end.

The city accepted two Law Enforcement Assistance Council grants, one for $3,050 to pay for the cost of a detective for the police department. The city will match that amount. The second grant will provide $1,800 for a clerk for City Court. The city will provide $600. The clerk will ease the work load on police and allow a separation between the police and department and the court.

The council also assured a property owner on Marian street that something will be done about the water problems there. The council said, however, that the city cannot do anything until the water goes down and the ground dries out.

Ira Keller, a long- time member of the planning and zoning commission was reappointed to the commission by the council. Keller had resigned from the commission last year because of ill health.

The council also accepted a petition containing 1,700 signatures, calling for an election to allow liquor by the drink in the city. City Clerk John Vaughn will certify the signatures. If there are a sufficient number of names on the petition, an election will be called in 40 days.

The petitions contain the names of 20 per cent of the registered voters in the city to be valid. Vaughn said this morning he wasn't sure of the exact number of names needed.

Search underway for jail escapee

BENTON— The Scott County sheriff's department began a search this morning for Billy Joe Garrett, 32, of New Madrid, who escaped Monday night from the Scott County jail where he was being held while the New Madrid County jail is being remodeled.

According to Sheriff John Dennis, one of the prisoners requested a bandage from jailer Pete Gosche around 9:30 p.m. Gosche tried to throw it to the prisoner but the bandage fell on the floor. Gosche then unlocked the door to the main cell and walked around to pick up the bandage. Garrett reached through his cell bars, grabbed Gosche and held him until getting the keys away from him. Garrett then unlocked the cell, locked Gosche inside and fled.

When Deputy Jack Stewart came to relieve Gosche this morning, he found the front door unlocked and Gosche locked in the cell.

Garrett had been moved to the Scott County jail for New Madrid authorities because of the jail being remodeled.

Garrett, who was sentenced to 50 years in the state penitentiary in 1965 for armed robbery had been brought back to the New Madrid County jail for a hearing on a motion for a new trial he filed while in the state penintentary at Jefferson City.

Bootheel raked by tornadoes

A heavy Spring storm, which raked Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois Monday night, spawned a series of tornadoes and wind storms.

Beginning at 5:50 p.m., tornatoes and funnel clouds were sighted east of Poplar Bluff, near Malden, Bernie, Essex, Morehouse, Penermon Bertrand, Scott City and Cape Girardeau. Several of these touched the ground, leaving behind damage, eight injuries in the Bootheel, but no deaths.

Two Illinois men, both employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, were injured when high winds blew the last four cars ofa moving freight train off the tracks three miles east of Poplar Bluff, the highway patrol reported.

Willard Dowd, 55, of Dupo, Ill. and Dennis Ward, 31, of Chester, Ill., sustained minor injuries when the caboose in which they were riding derailed at 5:50 p.m. They were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A tornado struck the end of the train south of Highway 60, near the Junction of Highway 60 and Route AA in Butler County. The caboose and four piggy back cars loaded with semi trailers were overturned.

About the same time five persons were injured when their mobile home overturned east of the derailment site. The trailer belonged to Amos Ward, 58, who sustained a back injury. Other injuries were Mary Ward, 46, foot injury; Willie Storey, 41, broken arm; Jacqueline Walton, 22, scratches; and Willie Walton, eight months, scratches. All were of Poplar Bluff Route Three. They were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff where all were treated and released except Amos Ward, who was admitted.

Two vacant houses in the same area were destroyed. Numerous houses received roof damage and broken windows. Power and telephone lines were blown down.

The community of Penermon was also hit by high winds and a reported tornado between 6:15 and 6:45 p.m. The community building of the town was destroyed and almost every house in the town had some sort of damage.

Another tornado was reported by the highway patrol about 7:15 p.m. near Highway 153, south of Hunterville in Stoddard County. Several barns, sheds and an unoccupied house were destroyed. Numerous houses in this area received roof damage and broken windows.

An unidentified woman, received minor injuries near Hungerville when her car struck a utility pole which broke the windshield, the highway patrol reported.

South of Essex, near the Junction of Highway 144 and Route KK, an unoccupied house trailer was overturned.

Several homes were damaged in the Northtown portion of Fredericktown, about 70 miles south of St. Louis, but no injuries were reported.

A heavy storm cell also moved through the Kansas City area Monday afternoon and a tornado was reported to have touched down in a rural area trailer park, destroying three trailers.

Illinois was plagued with the heavy storm cell. Two men working at a farm implement store in Freeburg, Ill., 25 miles southeast of St. Louis, were injured when a twister slashed across the north corner of town.

Bob McCulloch, 47, of St. Charles, and Don Barkow, 26 of Freeburn, Ill. were taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital at nearby Belleville, Ill. McCulloch was admitted for observation and Barkow was treated and released. It was the second tornado to hit the Groth Implement Company in five years.

Nixon asks disaster agency

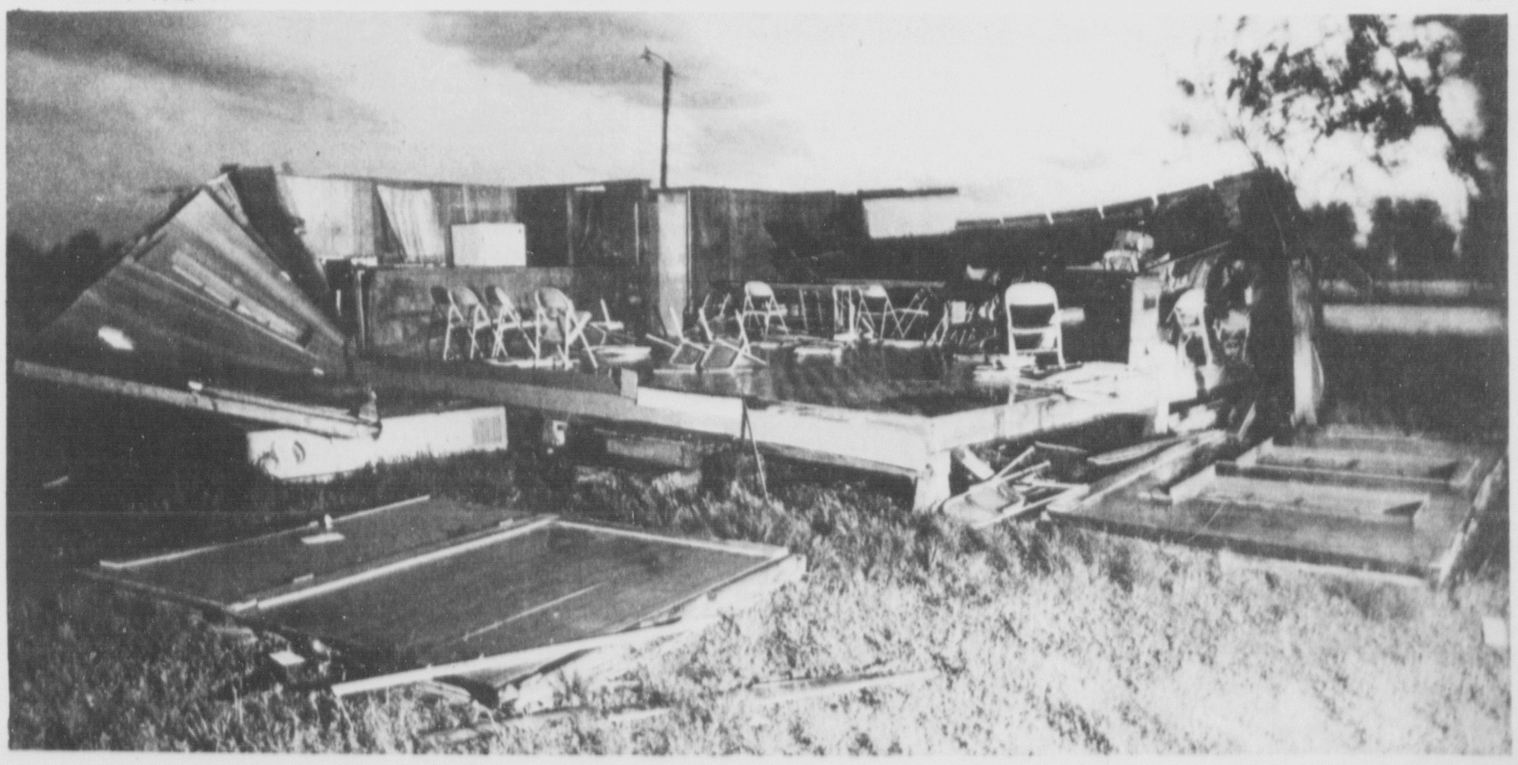

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to consolidate disaster activities in a single federal agency that would speed aid to victims while forcing the states to assume more responsibility in recovery from floods, earthquakes and other natural catastrophes.

"This bill would place greater emphasis on protecting people and property against the effects of disasters before they occur," Nixon said.

"While we cannot fully control the occurrence and the impact of disasters, we must do all we can to prepare for them, to prevent them, and to mitigate and remedy their effects."

The proposed Disaster Preparedness and Assistance Act is designed to standardize benefits for disaster victims; improve execution of the assistance program; prevent the misuse of benefits; strengthen preventive measures to minimize future losses, and increase the role of state and local governments in implementing the disaster program.

The President said the act "represents a comprehensive new approach to a very crucial problem." To ease the transition to the new system, if adopted, he proposed that during its first year of operation a special federal grant of $250,000 be provided to each state "to help it increase its disaster preparedness and assistance capabilities."

Tornado strips community building

Walls were blown outward and the roof was stripped from this Christian Liberty Community Park building in the Penermon Community in Stoddard County when a tornado swept through the small community about 6:30 p.m. Monday. See additional storm pictures on pages 5 and 7.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Our hard-nosed banker relative sent this short report too our attention:

"As we indicated a fortnight ago, new controls can't be ruled out. Every passing day provides fresh proof that the Government's game plan has gone awry. Administration critics who call what's happening to prices 'shocking' and 'outrageous' are right. But they're directing their blasts at the wrong target. Where were they when the seeds of inflation were being planted in the 'fifties and when they were beginning to sprout rapidly in the 'sixties? Many of those same critics were in Congress voting 'guns and butter' programs and preaching easy money policies as though we could afford anything we wanted by simply running the printing presses a little faster. Unfortunately, a majority of Americans apparently believed it, too, and went along with it. Now, at last the stark facts -- the fatal effects of profligacy -- are staring them straight in the face, and they're afraid."

The fact is that... "a 'lot' of inflation is made up of lots of 'little inflation.'"

OLD BRIDGES DON'T FADE AWAY

The city of Rocky River, Ohio, has a problem. It wants to demolish and replace the Rocky River Bridge which spans, appropriately enough, the Rocky River just west of Cleveland.

It seems the bridge is crumbling and is considered dangerous. Traffic has been reduced from four lanes to two.

Complicating matters, however, is the fact that the undistinguished structure has been declared a "historic monument" by the Ohio Historical Society, the National Parks Service and the National Council on Historic Preservation.

Even if it is a historic site, argues one Rocky River councilman, chunks of concrete continue to fall off it. The city hopes the federal government will weigh the cost of maintaining the "monument" against the cost of replacing it with a new and serviceable bridge.

The city of London had a similar problem. Its solution was to unload the tottering London Bridge on a real estate development in Arizona, where it is now a tourist attraction.

Anybody want the Rocky River Bridge?

A TASTE OF ITS OWN MEDICINE

What neither sleet nor snow nor gloom of night is supposed to be capable of, the Postal Service has managed to do itself — stay its couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds.

There was a brief item in the news the other day to the effect that postmen in a southern Illinois town — West Frankfort, to be exact -- were hoofing it on their deliveries even though they have official mail cars.

Reason: The cars didn't have license plates.

Reason: The plates, new 1973 ones required by Feb. 15, had been lost in the mails. — D. G.

GUN LAW SURVEY
POLICE FAVORED
MANDATORY SENTENCE

The gun identification law in Illinois bothered Bob Warner, an active citizen of Moline. To him, the law seemed worthless because crime continued to rise.

He drafted a bill providing a minimum of 25 years imprisonment upon first conviction for carrying a firearm during commission of a criminal offense. Second conviction carried a minimum of life imprisonment.

Mr. Warner wondered what police officers thought of the bill. He surveyed 256 police departments. He writes:

"The survey was taken in March and April of this year. Of 256 police departments, 250, or 97.7%, favored the bill while only 6, or 2.3%, were not in favor. Ten per cent of the 256 replies agreed with the idea of asking for a mandatory prison sentence, but felt that 10 to 15 years mandatory would be adequate."

He rewrote the bill carrying the lighter sentences. It was taken before an Illinois Senate Committee. The bill was defeated by a vote of 7-3.

Every administration is plagued by the misdeeds of some of its appointees to public office. FDR had his problems when misuse and abuse of federal funds were discovered in WPA and other New Deal programs. Harry Truman felt the touch of scandal in the case of the deepfreezes. Eisenhower was caught up in the scandal that sent Sherman Adams home in disgrace. Lyndon Johnson had the shadow of the Bobby Baker case handing over his head. Now President Nixon is squeezed in the middle of the Watergate debacle.

At stake are moral and ethical issues that cannot be overlooked. The American people have a right to expect their government to act uprightly. When public figures breach the common canons of conduct, no stone should be left unturned to bring the culprits to justice.

We will accept the fact that the President was not personnally involved in the sordid Watergate affair. But now that he knows of its existence and is aware of the names of those who have already been tried and found guilty, his duty is clear. It is Mr. Nixon's responsibility as President to see that the matter is thoroughly investigated and that the full weight of the judicial process is employed to guarantee justice is done.

Mr. Nixon has another responsibility. He should purge his administration of all who have been involved in this squalid affair. In this way people everywhere will know that his administration will not put up with this sort of thing, and even more, that he himself has taken a stand for ethical and moral principles that have suffered because of Watergate.

Any failure by Mr. Nixon to act now can only lead to the conclusion that there is something he wishes to keep hidden, and justify the caustic comments of his worst critics. He owes it to his friends and supporters to clean the slate.

If we are reading the signs right, despite the spotlight on Indochina, Watergate and other worries, most people are concerned and baffled by one subject -- inflation.

Most everyone we listen to say they don't know who or what to blame for inflation, but many are firm about one thing: Government spending is too high.

The experts say that the business boom is turning out to be far more inflationary than almost anyone predicted some months ago. Economists see a number of dangers growing out of inflationary pressures. For one thing, there is the prospect that union leaders in major negotiations for this year will be insisting on larger increases in wages.

Bigger pay demands, in turn, raise the threat that employers will be under pressure to raise prices to meet the wage demands -- and face strikes, if they do not.

There is concern about what the Government may have to do in order to bring inflation under control, such as, putting the squeeze on money and credit that could bring on a slow down or even a downturn.

But behind all the talk, fear of runaway inflation is widespread. So, once again, an effort may be made to "break inflationary expectations" without risking the kind of credit crunch that tends to bring on a recession.

WOULD MAKE MOCKERY OF MERIT SYSTEM

Gov. Bond again got off on the wrong foot recently when he nominated Edward E. Haynes of Moberly as head of the state merit system, and by week's end seemingly was in an embarrassing position.

State law requires that applicants for the job must take examinations and that a Governor select one of the top three.

Gov. Bond apparently personally wanted Haynes, an acquaintance from days when they worked together in the Jaycee organization, but when Haynes came in fifth in the examination, under the law he was not eligible for appointment.

Bond then asked two of the top three to waive their rights to be considered, which they did, under pressure of his request. This moved Haynes up into the top three and eligiblity for the job.

What makes the matter more unfortunate for Gov. Bond is that during his campaign, he severly criticized Gov. Hearnes for making appointments in much the same way, because of his personal favoritism.

If the state senate, which must confirm the appointment, allows the stae merit system to be juggled in such a manner, we might as well do away with the merit system. The appointment of Haynes, regardless of his qualifications, would be a mockery.

SUCCESSFUL GROWTH

Since it is impractical to turn the clock back 30 or 40 years by curbing output of energy and "phasing out" the gas engine, the next best step is to take a look at areas of the country that seem to be doing a good job of meeting both environmental needs and the requirements of a growing population.

Florida is one of these areas. It is the fastest- growing, large state in the nation. Since 1960, its population has increased 28.3 per cent. In addition to rapidly - expanding tourism, industry and business, Florida's agricultural economy is growing in size and variety every year. With this growth has come a fast- rising appetite for energy. The power companies of Florida are succeeding in meeting this appetite while still keeping a strict eye on environmental considerations and the maintenance of adequate energy reserves. There is no talk of turning back the clock in Florida. Instead, people are benefiting from the state's growth, according to figures from one major power company which currently is carrying on exhaustive nuclear plant research work. Energy consumption per customer is at record levels and rising. The company's customer's enjoyed three rate reductions in 1969 totaling $5.7 million annually.

Florida is living proof that growth and environmental preservation can accompany one another. We need not submit to the negative proposition that progress must somehow be stopped to save the environment. The power companies of Florida, like similar companies throughout the country, are seeking -- and finding -- ways to achieve continued growth and improved living standards.

EMPTY STOMACHS
AND COMMUNISM

Columnist Bruce Biossat in the Annapolis Evening Capital has given some comparative figures on food production in communist versus noncommunist nations. Anyone who wishes to eat regularly may find Mr. Biossat's information of interest. While communist nations are great talkers, when it comes to "land reform", they are consistently the world's worst farm producers.

"Not too long ago", observed Mr. Biossat, "48 per cent of the Soviet labor force was still engaged in farming ..." In the United States today, only 6 per cent of the total labor force works on farms. And, out of our agricultural abundance, one fifth of all the cropland harvested in the United States produces for export. By contrast, in communist China, available food supplies, according to Mr. Biossat, "... have remained roughly constant since 1965, though China's population keeps growing. Agricultural production in noncommunist Asian nations, such as Thailand, has soared. History and the statistics show that communism and a full stomach rarely travel in the same company.

CRIME IN THE SUBURBS

Some persons argue that crime is caused by poverty and discrimination and that massive government expenditures in "inner city" areas would eliminate the conditions which cause crime and hence eliminate crime itself. Newly released statistics on the crime rate in Washington, D.C., area show that crime is by no means confined to poverty areas, and that therefore it cannot be eliminated simply by raising living standards.

The city of Washington has long been notorious for its high crime rate, but crime in its suburbs is now approaching Washington's rate. The crime rate in the suburban city of Alexandra actually surpassed Washington's in 1972.

Reported violent crimes such as murder and robbery increased 620 per cent in Washington's five major suburban jurisdictions between 1960 and 1971, while the population increased 58 per cent. In Washington itself the increase was 392 per cent, with the size of the population remaining stable.

These statistics have significance for the nation as a whole. It is a slur on good city people to say that crime is primarily confined to inner-city areas. It is running away from the problem to say that more government expenditures on so- called poverty programs would eliminate crime.

Instead we need more support for our law enforcement officers wherever they work, in city, suburb or rural area. We need judges who will be as concerned for innocent victims as they are for criminals' "rights." We need action by concerned citizens. HLH

Haven't heard any ivory tower economists or hard-headed brokers speak of it yet, but it seems reasonable that if you have any stock in the buggy whip factory you'd better hold onto it. It may rise out of sight.

This is because of what is termed the "energy crisis" but which really is nothing but an acute case of the shorts in the oil and gas supply.

They're talking now about dollar-a-gallon gasoline, and when that comes, people may turn to horsepower again.

Most people's cars get about 12 to 14 miles to the gallon, no matter how much they lie about it. And a horse will walk that far for only 50 cents or so of oats by offhand estimate.

This could mean our streets will be filled with horses and buggies. If the environmentalists who are blocking the Alaska oil pipeline believe that will improve the ecology, they just don't understand horses.

The shortages already are here as survivors of this recent winter found.

It's so bad that a fellow we know built a second fireplace in his house and laid in a good supply of wood to let it cure before the gas and heating oil supplies are gone.

There are a fairly large number of persons who didn't know what gas heat was until they were grown men and women.

Some of these complained about central heat when it finally came. They just couldn't get warm unless they backed up to a fire.

Watch men today when they walk into a room with a fireplace.

Even if there hasn't been any fire there for years, they back up to it and hook an elbow over the mantle. It is an act built into their genes and chromosomes over countless centuries, just like breathing.

But, man, is it a lot of work! It's much easier to flick the thermostat up a couple of degrees than to cut half a cord of wood a day.

Of course it's not that much work if you have a small boy to do the wood chopping for you.

There were some compensations. This came on days when it was bitterly cold and the small boy's mother or grandmother decided to cook on the fireplace rather than start up the huge old cookstove in the kitchen.

Well, in no time at all the beans bubbled, the biscuits rose and browned, the ham sizzled, and there was the meal.

TV dinners aren't half the trouble.

They don't taste half as good, either, if memory serves properly.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Phony CIA Credentials Used in Watergate Caper

WASHINGTON— The Watergate ringleaders apparently used phony credentials, which the Central Intelligence Agency authenticated, during their spying- sabotage operations against the Democrats.

Trusted sources have told us James McCord, while he was preparing to bug Democratic Party headquarters, flashed CIA papers identifying himself as "George Russell." Those who checked with the CIA were assured "George Russell" was a legitimate employe.

Other sources close to the Watergate investigation say that G. Gordon Liddy may also have used the same "George Russell" alias. These sources claim the FBI originally thought the Watergate break-in was a CIA operation.

The CIA, however, refused to cooperate with the FBI investigation. A memo, intended for FBI eyes only, reported: "It is recalled we specifically were requested by the CIA not to interview... two CIA employes, and instructions were issued to WFO (Washington Field Office) to this effect. One of the individuals had already been interviewed, and the second was not interviewed per the request of the CIA."

Another FBI memo, prepared for ex- White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman but never submitted to him, noted that Hunt and Liddy had "traveled extensively around the United States contacting former CIA employes for the purpose of setting up a security organization for the Republican Party dealing with 'political espionage.'"

CIA LINKS

Both E. Howard Hunt and James McCord are ex- CIA agents. The four Cubans caught with McCord in the Democratic lair, according to an FBI memo, had either "worked with or participated in CIA activities against the Castro government."

One of the Cubans, Bernard Barker, was reported to have told associates that he thought all along the Watergate operation had "the support of the Company." The "Company" is a term used by insiders to refer to the CIA.

In Miami, Hunt once went to the CIA's placement bureau to see a locksmith skilled in "lockpicking" and opening "a locked room." The CIA willingly provided him with a name.

When the FBI discovered Hunt was involved in the Watergate conspiracy, agent John Rule "Telephonically contacted" presidential assistant Alexander P. Butterfield for an explanation. Our sources say he was the White House liaison man with the CIA. An FBI memo states that Butterfield informed Rule that "Hunt was used... on 'highly sensitive, confidential matters' about nine months ago."

The first impulse of President Nixon's campaign chiefs was to blame the Watergate bugging operation on the CIA. Both Hunt and McCord balked at this suggestion and sent back angry word that they wouldn't "sit still" for this. They have testified under oath that Watergate was not a CIA operation.

But there is growing evidence of some kind of CIA involvement.

Footnote: Butterfield told my associate Joseph Spear that he doesn't remember being called by the FBI. He had "security responsibility" at the White House, he said, but was "not aware" that he was a designated CIA liaison official. McCord couldn't be reached, and the CIA would say only that "McCord is a retired employe and normally would not carry current identification."

GAG ORDER

Angry senators have charged that the White House had intervened with the National Transportation Safety Board to stop the release of reports that might embarrass the Nixon Administration.

The board is supposed to be an independent agency which investigates air accidents and oversees the performance of the Federal Aviation Administration. Senate Commerce Chairman Warren Magnuson, D— Wash., believes air safety should be kept out of politics.

He got assurances from board chairman John H. Reed on March 25, 1971, that "we do not yield one iota on independence, believe me. The board is completely independent. We try to be gentlemen in working with (The White House), but there is no intrustion beyond that independence line and if there is any influence I will be the first one up here to speak to you and members of the committee."

Magnuson has now been informed, however, that the White House ordered the board to cease issuing reports critical of the Administration.

In a scalding letter, Magnuson has written Reed: "I have received allegations that despite the assurance you personally provided the Committee on March 25, 1971, that on March 18, 1973, you called a meeting of members of the National Transportation Safety Board to discuss communications you had received from the White House staff regarding certain lawful functions of the Board.

"It has been alleged," continues the confidential letter, "on that occasion you, acting as Chairman of the Board, revealed that the White House staff had expressed displeasure with you and other members of the Board because of certain reports and recommendations adopted and made publically by the Board which were critical of the Department of Transportation and its Federal Aviation Administration.

"It has been charged that you were ordered, despite provisions of law to the contrary, to cease issuing such reports which might in any way be construed as critical of the Department of Transportation or the Executive Branch. Further, charges have been made that you informed members of the Board that unless the Board agreed to cease this activity...that members would be 'disciplined' by the White House. Magnuson demanded full particulars from Reed who, when contacted by us, refused to comment.

FBI in Field:
Missing Notes of Secret Meeting Key To Triple Yablonski Murder Paymasters

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON---- Melancholy as they are over the emasculation of their Bureau, it's nonetheless business as usual for the men of the FBI. And it's strange to learn that still high in the agency's priorities are the Yablonski murders. Daily, teams of special agents, with no restrictions on manpower, are out in the field in Tennessee and Kentucky still questioning, still probing and still seeking the top murder paymaster--- or paymasters.

There have been five confessions and five convictions on first- degree murder charges. Yet the specialists in this ghastly triple murder on Dec. 31, 1969, coordinated by the Justice Dept.'s Management- Labor Unit, are convinced there are higher- ups--- perhaps somewhere in the old United Mind Workers' (UMW) hierarchy.

Clues to what the FBI agents are seeking spring from an unreported conference of coal diggers union leaders held at 3 p.m., June 23, 1969, in the miners' legendary headquarters still stalked by the ghost of the Draconian John L. Lewis.

Some notes were taken that afternoon. But who jotted them down? Where are they? Just who was present that day? Why was the closed- door conference called? What significance is there in its assembling not long after Jock Yablonski broke with the Lewis sanhedrin and declared for the presidency of the small miners union---- but nonetheless one of the world's richest?

That morning there had been an official session of the UMW's International Executive Board. On the record there was little discussion of Yablonski's challenging Lewis's protege, W.A. "Tony" Boyle. Then about 12 board members were invited to a confidential meeting up in Boyle's office at 3 p.m.

Special federal agents now want to know who was there. Did someone say Yablonski should get it? Or, how do we take care of him for challenging the machine? Did someone say, "I'll take care of him"? Was that someone Albert Pass, the loner, the muscle squad chief of the "White Hat" bruisers of the neanderthal District 19? Did he say he would need $20,000--- which turned out to be $19,970?

Allegedly it was for the special Research and Information Fund of District 19. The "murder fund," this has been called by the state prosecution. Reportedly, this fund was discussed at the September 1968 quinquennial miners' convention in Denver.

Allegedly three men discussed creation of the research project--- Bill Turnblazer (then president of District 19), Albert Pass, and Boyle. Thus the so- called "murder fund" ostensibly was planned long before Yablonski decided to challenge the hierarchy. Thus how could it have been motivated by the decision to kill a man who was one of the convention leaders?

Well, Turnblazer says there was no such conversation.

Thus there could not have been a "research" fund as early as this more fraternal moment. The money was moved by Boyle through the union's National Bank here long after Yablonski declared against the regulars.

But there's more here than even an Agatha Christie script could match. Boyle beat Yablonski. Why then was this tragic man and his family murdered after the election results? What was he about to expose? There's much more Sherlock Holmes "Valley of Fear" intrigue yet to be revealed. Perhaps that's why the FBI men are still in the field.

We'll get a glimpse of some of it when Albert Pass goes to trial on June 4, in Erie, Pa., on first- degree murder charges. Grimly it could be not much more than old Hatfield- McCoy mediation coming out of the barrel of a gun. But it could reach up into the hierarchy of the old union--- through which passed some $10 million into District 19 alone in a decade, I'm told. And where there is this much money there is that much greed. It all has a Watergate touch.

One string leads to another in the skein. And the union president Arnold Miller, swept in on the wave of revulsion against the ghoulishness and corruption, thinks so highly of the Yablonski case special state prosecutor, Philadelphia's Richard Sprague, that he (Miller) has written to President Nixon urging him to name Sprague as the special prosecutor in the Watergate fantasy.

Miller is moving swiftly. He has been on small local picket lines and at large national traditional fund- raising banquets. He is the favorite of the old Walter Reuther band in the United Auto Workers, some of whom say they helped finance his fight on Boyle. And he has done the unexpected by intervening in the National Maritime Union (NMU) election against the respected incumbent president Shannon Wall. Miller has backed the ultra- militant New York hospital local '1199" which he helped in the Clinch Valley Clinic Hospital, Richlands, Va.

By the time the miners meet in their national convention this year, Miller will be a national figure.

And perhaps we'll have the answer to the most vicious mystery in labor history.

Bernie to receive rural fire service

BERNIE— The city council Monday night signed a contract with the rural fire department to provide fire service three years. Service will become available as soon as the fire truck being reconditioned is returned to the city. Cost of the reconditioning is being born by the rural fire district.

Tony Gleason of Sikeston met with the council to discuss proposed cable tv and the channels available. The council took the matter under advisement and will make a decision on the matter at a meeting next Tuesday night.

Bids were opened for solid waste disposal and curbside pickup service. Optional bids were opened for landfill dump privileges and a city operated service was discussed. A decision will be made next Tuesday.

Trotter Engineering of Dexter presented a proposed sewer enlargement at the north end with two lift stations and enlargement of sewer lagoons at a total cost of $192,000 of which the city's part is $60,000. The council will study the matter.

The city agreed to supply $250 to the summer recreation program, softball and baseball, sponsored by the Lions Club.

Mayor R.B. Woods appointed Judy Zoll to the library board and Norman Swafford and Guy Forrester to the Park Board. Elmer Kincaid was appointed to the Housing Authority.

The council voted to take bids on a new police car to be bought with revenue sharing funds. Bids will be opened next Tuesday night.

Mayor Woods discussed bids for the addition to the city jail and stated the city has on hand matching funds which will pay 50 percent of the cost of the building. Bids will be opened next Tuesday night.

Aldermen installed at council meeting

DEXTER — Aldermen Eldon Cooper, James T. Williams and Jack Smarr were installed to the city council Monday night by City Clerk George McCracken. Smarr replaces Lehman Godwin. Williams was elected chairman of the board of aldermen.

Mayor Willis Conner appointed Richard Miller chairman of the water and sewer committee. Robert Curtis and Eldon Cooper are to serve on the committee.

James T. Williams was appointed chairman of the Street, Alley and Police committee. James Carney and Jack Smarr will also serve on this committee.

President of the Retail Merchants David Agey, requested free parking in the downtown area for Saturdays only for eight weeks, beginning May 12 through July 7. The council approved the request providing Agey check with the majority of the merchants to see that they are in agreement.

Virgil Gilkey representing Mo-Ag Flying Service asked to submit a bid to spray Dexter for mosquitoes. The company plans to use Batex-4, a moderate toxic chemical harmless to humans and approved by the University of Missouri. The price would be $1 per acre if the company furnishes material and 50 cents per acre if the city provides material. The city would be sprayed three times. Gilkey also requested that a letter to the council be filed with the FAA in Jefferson City should his company be selected. Mayor Conner asked that the Mo-Ag Representative meet with the Street Alley and police committee for discussion of the bid. The matter will be discussed at the next regular council meeting.

An application for a city license for the J. R. Angle Plumbing and Heating Co. was approved.

Mayor Conner reported he had discussed a new contract with the Landon Brown Oil Co. for bulk gas for the city. The price would be $20 for regular and $21 for ethel at one and one-half cents above the company cost.

The Cottonbelt Railroad agreed to smooth out the railroad crossing at East Stoddard Street.

Jaycees host meeting on juvenile justice

"Our youth is the most volatile, the most precious natural resource we have," Paul A. Sundet of Columbia, a member of the Task Force on Juvenile Delinquency, Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, told a citizens conference on juvenile justice hosted by the Sikeston Jaycees Monday night at Sikeston High School.

Sundet was introduced by Joe Welborn of Bloomfield, conference chairman of Region 14, including Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard counties.

Sundet said he wanted to talk about ecology, the preservation of the highest quality of life for our youth, our best natural resource, and began by informing the group of the problems existing in Missouri concerning juvenile justice.

The first problem, Sundet said, is that Missouri has no statewide plan for delinquency prevention. For example, there is no juvenile justice counterpart to the state health department. To date, Missouri has had only after- the- fact institutions.

Secondly, while many programs deal with treatment, there is little co-ordination among programs to carry them out successfully. "There is effort, but it is not producing," Sundet said.

Thirdly, he stated, there are few existing standards for juvenile programs and no one in power to set needed standards.

The lack of compensation, money- wise, leads to Missouri's inability to get good staff members for juvenile programs. Not only is the pay inadequate, but training for juvenile officers is "haphazard". There is no co- ordination and no supervised training for juvenile personnel.

The sixth problem Sundet cited is that much of the treatment and main prevention methods are outmoded and inadequate. "We don't know what to do or how to do it."

According to Sundet, Senate Bill 191 now before the Senate Budget Control Committee, will set up the Divison of Youth Services and give the state responsibility for the question of delinquent prevention.

The bill will try to co-ordinate the development of delinquency prevention and control. It will establish

Paul A. Sundet

Ronald L. Larkin

policies, procedures, standards governing the state and local delinquency prevention, control and rehabilitation programs.

Ronald L. Larkin of Jefferson City, assistant director of juvenile programs, Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, described the ideal juvenile correctional system as that of taking a delinquent child and changing his behavior and attitudes.

A study of the juvenile system, Larkin said, revealed that although the philosophy of treatment for juveniles requires the Judge to act as a wise parent, many judges disagreed with the philosophy. Larkin said treatment depends opon the geographical area the juvenile is in.

Declaring Missouri's treatment system inadequate, Larkin said the average juvenile officer spends approximately 15 minutes a month with each juvenile case. In the state training school, 65 juveniles have been sleeping in one room – not exactly the atmosphere needed to change a child's behavior and attitudes.

"The goal is to take children and equip them to 'make it' in society," he stated.

"You cannot change attitudes by putting juveniles in an artificail situation far away from their homes and family," Larkin said. At Boonville, $20,000 is being spent per child per year, with no success. "There are better ways to spend money in areas of juvenile correction."

Larkin explained that Senate Bill 193, now before the Senate Education Committee, will provide tools to school systems to get at the family problem. The bill will establish a Division of Pupil Personnel Services in the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. The division includes counseling and consultation with parents and staff members on learning problems and guidance programs for pupils.

A challenge was made to the group by John Vargas of Sedalia, director of Project Juvenile Concern, a program sponsored the Missouri Jaycees. Vargas, a former juvenile delinquent helped by a Jaycee member, asked the group take "a definite step in the right direction."

He challenged them to get informed and write their representative about their personal feelings on what is being done for juveniles in this area.

He noted that property on which real estate taxes have not been paid for the year 1970 will be subject to tax sale in August and said statements will be prepared and mailed to the taxpayers.

Kay Menz, 25, of Bell City Route One received slight injuries about noon Monday when she stepped in front of a post office truck on Malone Avenue at the intersection of Malone and Kingshighway.

Police said the truck, driven by Lee A. Nabor, 109 Luther St., was westbound at the time of the accident. The woman apparently stepped off the curb without looking.

She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital and released after being treated for scratches.

Police said no arrests were made.

City Clerk Raymond Secoy said the city will be represented today at a meeting in Sikeston to attain information on possible federal funds available for mosquito control.

Secoy said the council is to meet again Thursday to work out a plan for use of federal revenue sharing funds and to complete the city budget.

I-55 reopened to traffic

Interstate highway 55 has been reopened to traffic, according to Lionel Murray, district 10 engineer of the highway department.

Murray said the southbound lane was reopened Monday night and the north bound lane reopened at 9 a.m. today. The heavy winds Monday night delayed the reopening, he added.

Heavy winds or more rain could close the highway again, Murray said.

One of South Carolina's swimming stars is freshman Tom Schmidt from Pasadena, Calif. He's a distance free-styler.

Uhr named Chaffee fire inspector

CHAFFEE — Fire Chief Charles Uhr was hired Monday night by the City Council as the new fire inspector.

Uhr will inspect businesses in Chaffee to see that all are safe for operating a business and not a fire hazard. Each business will be required to purchase a $1 certificate from Uhr each year stating that the business has been inspected and is safe.

For the first six months Uhr will work five days a week and receive $160 a month, including the $25 a month he now receives as fire chief. After the six months end, he will work two days a week at $20 a day.

The council also decided to purchase a uniform for Uhr.

The council agreed to send Police Judge Bill Vickery to a meeting of magistrate judges in Columbia set for May 18-19. He was alloted $100 for expenses.

Building inspector Matt Hahn was given a $30 per month raise by the council, effective with the May 1,pay period.

Hahn also gave a report on the number of building permits issued in Chaffee. He asked members of the council to tell anyone with problems concerning building permits to call him.

A motion was taken under advisement by the council to check into the possibility of solving the problem of the overload of parking on North Yoakum Street.

The council decided to start spraying for mosquitoes in the Chaffee area as soon as possible.

Ann Landers

No banker should speak of clients

Dear Ann Landers: When you answered that lad from Plainfield who complained about his mother's cooking, you missed a golden opportunity. Instead of telling him that hospitality is more important than food, why didn't you tell him to learn to cook? Pioneering in the kitchen can be fun.

While punching cows in the West, I was amazed at the men who could whip up a meal in no time at all. We had sheepherder spuds, sourdough biscuits, smooth, lump- free gravy, beautiful steaks and delicious coffee. When I started to cook my flapjacks were like linoleum squares, but when you begin like that, you've got to get better.

Please tell your teen- age readers a world of adventure awaits them in the kitchen. A guy who can cook is ahead of the pack for reasons that may not come clear to him for many years.--- Bar U Ranch, Sublette, Illinois

Dear Bar U: These days a man who can't cook is in trouble. If he has a working wife it's darned near mandatory. Thanks for the testimonial.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I saw an advertisement in a respectable newspaper for "oils" that promised to awaken "animal instincts and arouse passion in males." I read the ad carefully. The "oils" are made of whale blubber and secretions from skunk glands.

For $10 plus tax you can get one- third of an ounce of each. The ad said the oils release some sort of mysterious odor that will "awaken the male's animal desires with a sensuous power of a wave crashing upon the shore."

I can't imagine a respectable newspaper taking such an ad unless the product is legitimate. If it works it could solve my biggest problem.

Please tell me if the stuff will do any good.--- Unlucky In Love

Dear Unlucky: The oils will do a lot of good--- for the company that sells them. They will get rich from suckers who should know better.

Dear Ann Landers: We live in a small community where everyone knows everyone else. At a dinner party last night a banker had a few extra drinks and started to talk about people who were having financial problems. The more he talked the more irritated I became. Finally I told him that a banker should honor a code of ethics in the same way that a doctor is expected to. In other words, "Keep your mouth shut about your clients."

His wife became angry-- declared that money is nonpersonal and in no way can it be compared with a person's medical problems. She insisted that almost every businessman enjoys talking about his investments, his profits and losses. In fact, she said, "Money is the sum and substance of most male conversation." She was extremely articulate but I still think she was wrong. Your opinion, please?--- Weston, Mass.

Dear Weston: Some clods enjoy talking about their operations, their sex life and other personal subjects. This doesn't make it acceptable.

A banker who fails to respect the confidences of his customers violates a basic principle of business ethics and good judgment. It's one thing for a person to talk about his own financial status, but it's quite another story when a banker gossips about his customers.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

A Twister which dipped down three miles south of Essex sometime between 6:15 and 6:45 Monday overturned and mangled this mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Corlew. The couple were at his parents home in Essex when the tornado hit. The twister, which reportedly came through the woods, did not damage two other unoccupied mobile homes nearby. Wet fields continue to delay farm work

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — It was the same old story for Missouri farmers the past week — continuing rain and wet fields all but eliminated farm work.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said there was only a day suitable for field work in all areas except the Bootheel.

Corn planting was reported three per cent complete, compared to 30 per cent a year ago. Planting was 10 per cent complete in the Bootheel.

The service reported the seeding of oats virtually finished, with numerous reports indicating farmers will not sow all the oats they intended.

Wheat was reported in fair condition throughout the state, with 10 per cent of the crop headed, as compared to 31 per cent a year ago.

Commemorative stamp sale marks Truman birthdate

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The laying of a presidential wreath on the grave of Harry S. Truman and the first sale of a commemorative stamp will mark what would have been the 89th birthday of the nation's 33rd President.

President Nixon designated Postmaster General E. T. Klassen to lay the wreath, at 10:30 a.m. CDT, in a private ceremony at the Truman Library.

Klassen also was a speaker for the ceremonial first sale of the eight-cent stamp, on the front steps of the library at 11 a.m.

The stamp is classed as a verticle jumbo and bears a Truman portrait based on a picture taken by a Kansas City photographer, Leo Stern.

Stamp collectors from around the country converged on the library to buy official first-day covers. The stamps and firstday cancellations were available at other post offices in Independence and at a mobile station parked at the library. The stamps will go on sale elsewhere Wednesday.

Truman died Dec. 26 after more than six years of frail health. It was not quite 20 years since he had returned to Independence from Washington, where he was a senator, vice president and president.

The annual birthday party in his honor, started by some long-time Kansas City cronies soon after he came home, was held again Monday on a somewhat different note but still in an atmosphere of good cheer.

It marked the founding of the annual Harry S. Truman Good Neighbor Award; and the first one went to Earl Warren, retired chief justice of the United States.

"Nothing could be more symbolic of his life," Justice Warren said in his acceptance speech. "He knew that to have a peaceful world we have to have a world of good neighbors. No man of my age will go down in history as more a man of peace."

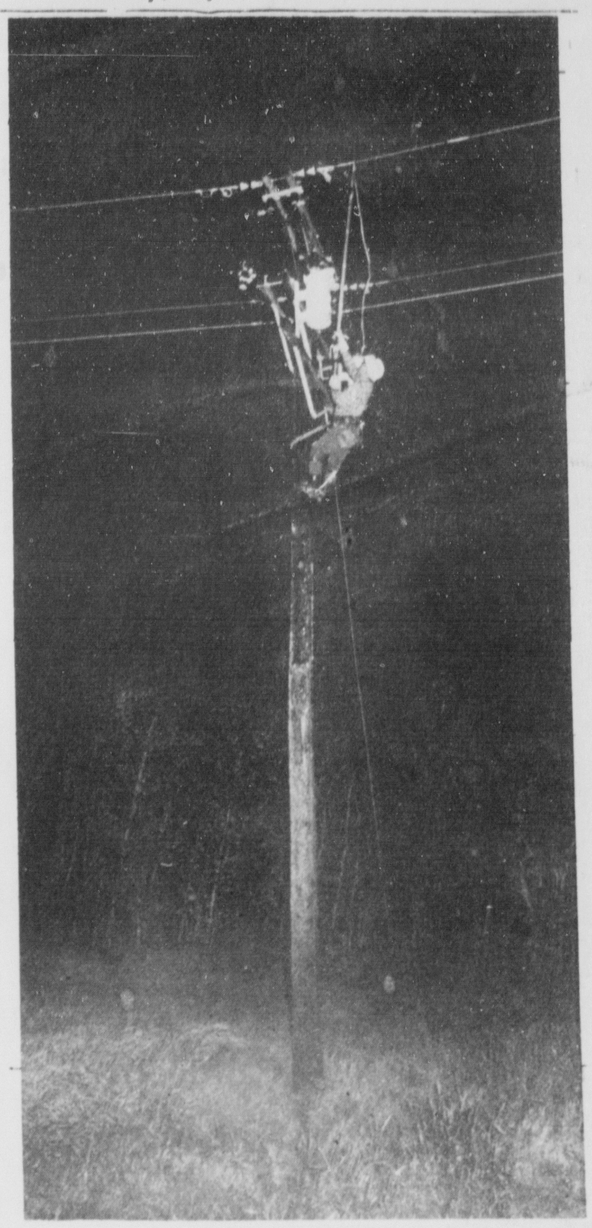

Warren himself was cited for fostering "a feeling of neighborliness among all mankind in the spirit of Harry Truman."

Henry Talge, the man who started and pays for the birthday parties, said he already has arranged to carry the commemorative luncheons through the 100th anniversary of Truman's birth. The 81-year-old philanthropist made millions selling automobile accessories and making kitchen gadgets.

Besides setting up the good neighbor award through a foundation named for Eddie Jacobson, Truman's partner in an illstarred haberdashery in downtown Kansas City, Talge also gave eleven giant volumes of editorial tributes to the Truman Library. The editorials were published at the time of Truman's death.

The good neighbor award also carries a $1,000 gift to the library, which was the former president's main project after he returned home.

About 400 attended the first commemorative luncheon, a somewhat larger crowd than in former years. Fifteen men answered the traditional roll call of "Battery D,' made up of men who served with Truman when he was an artillery captain in France.

Debate underway on reorganization measure

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House got down to debate today on a government reorganization measure that a government research expert says gives the governor the "latitude necessary to achieve improvement."

Robert P. Knuth, research director for the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, a nonprofit research agency, told House members Monday that the 40-page House substitute for a 240-page Senate bill gives the legislature a check on reorganization but still gives the governor wide authority to streamline government.

Knuth and Reps. Joe Holt, D-Fulton, and Harold Volkmer, D-Hannibal, explained the bill for two hours. Volkmer sponsored the House bill not yet acted upon and Holt is the House reorganization chairman.

Reorganization was approved by the voters last August in the form of a constitutional amendment that called for the state's 100 agencies to be reorganized under 13 departments and the Office of Administration.

The House measure reduces the number of agencies reporting to the governor to 45, Volkmer said.

The bill sets forth three levels of transfers and allows the department directors and the governor to begin Oct. 1 on the transfers. According to the constitutional amendment, reorganization must be implemented by July 1, 1974.

"The House committee substitute follows generally the plan developed after more than two years of study by the state reorganization commission," Knuth said.

"The substitute assigns agencies and programs to the various departments on a functionally realistic basis, provides department heads with sufficient authority to get the job done and concentrates the governor's supervisory role in general to officials with major responsibilities," he said.

Under the type 1 transfer approach, the governor would appoint director for the six departments and appoint the boards and commissions that would run the other departments. The departments with directors will be Agriculture, Consumer Affairs and Licensing, Natural Resources, Public Safety, Social Services and Revenue, as well as the Office of Administration which is not called a department.

Under types 1 and 2 of transferring, the department director could make the appointments within his department and the governor will abolish or create positions by executive order.

The legislature would have 60 days, after it convenes, to disapprove the order. If there is no action, the order stands.

The Senate Reorganization Bill requires Senate advice and consent for division heads in some departments, while the house substitute does not. The Senate bill also calls for an interim committee to act on the governor reorganization recommendations.

The House measure sets a maximum salary of $30,000 a year for six department directors and the commissioner of administration, who now receives $25,000. The lowest paid department director now receives $16,000, the same as the lieutenant governor. The bill also calls for deputy directors for most departments.

Several representatives pointed out that the director' salaries would be higher than those of elected officials except the governor.

When boards, divisions and commissions are transferred, the legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee must give approval for altering appropriations.

The House measure contains a budgeting requirement similar to a "zero-based" budgeting bill vetoed by the governor.

If the House and Senate can't agree on reorganization by next Jan. 1, Holt said, the constitutional amendment lets the governor carry it out.

The bill doesn't change retirement systems.

Rep. Robert E. Young, R-Carthage, criticized the "adjournment night compromise" last April 30 which created too many departments and too much consent authority for the senate.

There should have been only 10 departments as the Little Hoover Commission suggested, Young said.

The departments, and some of the things they will include, under the House substitute:

Agriculture — All employes will be under the merit system. The department will retain most of its present duties and will be given the state Horticulural Society and state Milk Board.

Conservation — Headed by a commission appointed by the governor. Will be basically the same as it is now constituted. Will have jurisdiction over the state Boat Commission.

Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing — takes over all duties of the former Department of Business and Administration, with the exception of some given to the Office of Administration. The department will have a Division of Consumer Protection, now handled by the attorney general's office.

Also in this department will be the Public Service Commission, state Banking Board, Savings and Loan Commission the Administrative Hearing Commission, Division of Finance, Division of Credit Unions, Savings and Loan Division, insurance Division, Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Tourism Commission, Division of Professional Registration, Human Rights Commission, Division of Weights and Measures, and Sports Complex Authorities.

Department of Elementry and Secondary Education — this department will be nearly the same, with junior colleges transferred to the Department of Higher Education. The Elementary and Secondary Education Department will continue to administer federal-state aid for vocational programs in junior colleges.

Department of Higher Education — a coordinating board replaces the Commission on Higher Education. It will approve degree programs, approve establishment of any new state supported colleges, establish guidelines on appropriations and admissions.

The state Poultry and Fruit Experiment Stations will be assigned to the University of Missouri. The state Library is assigned to the coordinating board.

Highway Department — Controlled by the highway commission. The department remains as it is now, but takes in the various bridge commissions.

Department of Labor and Industrial Relations — Headed by a commission appointed by the governor. Under this department will be the divisions of Employment Security, Workmen's Compensation, and it takes over duties of the Board of Rehabilitation, Division of Industrial Inspection, Mine Inspection and state Board of Mediation.

Department of Mental Health — this will be similar to the current Division of Mental Health, controlled by the Mental Health Commission which will appoint a director. The Missouri Institute of Psychiatry in St. Louis will be assigned to the department, which is allowed to contract to the University of Missouri for training of psychiatrists.

Department of Natural Resources — Going to this department will be the Air Conservation Commission, clean water commission, state Environmental Improvement Authority, Oil and Water District Commission, Oil and Gas Council, Land Reclamation Commission, Atomic Energy Commission functions the commission will be abolished) and Interagency Council for Outdoor Recreation.

Department of Pbulic Safety — The governor shall appoint a department director as well as the highway patrol superintendent.

Licensing of motor vehicles will be shifted to this department from the revenue department. The Department of Public Safety also will have the Liquor Control Division, state Fire Marshal's office, National Guard, and will take over duties of the Law Enforcement Assistance Council and Highway Reciprocity Commission.

Department of Revenue — will be nearly the same except for losing the licensing function, and will take over duties of the state tax commission.

Department of Social Services — will have the divisions of Health, Welfare, Veterans Affairs, Nursing Homes, Corrections and Board of Training Schools, Division of Probation and Parole, Housing Development Commission and Crippled Childrens' Services.

Department of Transportation — to be controlled by a commission. Assigned to this department will be the St. Louis Metropolitan Airport Authority, Kansas City Area Transportation Authority, BI-State Development Agency and Aviation Division.

Office of Adminstration — This office came into being last Jan. 1. The commissioner is appointed by the governor and is in charge of suprlus property, custodial servi es, personnel, construction, budgeting and car and airplane pools.

Secretary astonished by Long family accusations

BOWLING GREEN, Mo. (AP) — Miss Helen Dunlop, secretary and companion to the late former U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long whose death is being investigated, said Monday she was "hurt and astonished" because of charges made against her by the senator's widow Florence Long.

Mrs. Long has filed a $3.25 million alienation of affection suit against Miss Dunlop, 47, who worked for the senator for 26 years.

During an interview here Monday, Miss Dunlop said she was never intimate with Long and she did not use her affections to help break up the Long marriage.

Authorities are investigating the possibility that Long was poisoned prior to his death Nov. 6, 1972. Miss Dunlop told police in March that minutes before he died, Long told her he thought he had been poisoned by a box of candy sent him as a gift.

The disclosure led authorities to exhume Long's body from a Hannibal, Mo., cemetery last week and the contents of his stomach were being examined to determine if he was poisoned.

Members of the Long family have said they believe he died of a tumor.

Long, 64, was U.S. senator from 1960 to 1968 before losing a Democratic primary battle to Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton. He had been a state senator and lieutenant governor.

What's the law?

The case of the exiled wife

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Sarah made two very bad mistakes. The first was in leaving her husband Jethro, who very difficult to get along with, and the second was asking him to take her back.

"Sure I'll take you back," he told her, "but for awhile you're going to have to live out in the bunkhouse with the hired help until I think you've properly repented. Out there you'll be able to repent in leisure for having run away in haste."

Sarah, however, had no intention of living in the bunkhouse, and as soon as she heard her husband's pronouncement, she left him again. This time, however, he immediately started an action to end their marriage on the grounds of his wife's desertion.

"I'm a generous man," he confessed to the judge, "and, while I offered to take her back once, I'm not going to do it twice. This time, Sarah's had it."

"Exiling me to the bunkhouse answered Sarah, "was hardly what you would call taking me back. On the contrary, it was like sending me to Siberia. No wife has to take that."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you end the marriage because of Sarah's desertion?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a wife deserts a husband and offers to return, she is entitled to be taken back under terms that are not inconsistent with her self-respect, such as having to live out in a bunkhouse with the hired help.

Disaster center opens at Madrid

NEW MADRID — Between 50 and 60 applicants had registered within three hours Monday following opening at noon of a Federal Disasterr Assistance Center in the community building by the Office of Emergency Preparedness, according to Dan Sudbick.

Sudbick, of the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency of Denver, Colo., on assignment to OEP, has been in charge of a similar center for 11 days in Caruthersville. He said over 2,200 applications were received there from persons who had claims for flood losses in Pemiscot, Dunklin and New Madrid counties.

The Caruthersville office closed Saturday and the New Madrid office was opened to benefit those persons in the area who have been unable to get to Caruthersville or a disaster assistance center in Charleston.

A spokesman for the U. S. Small Business Administration said 4,000 applicants had been anticipated by his agency, however, it is now expected between 15,000 to 20,000 will be made.

Agencies represented at the center include SBA, Internation Revenue Service, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, New Madrid County Welfare department, Division of Employment Security, and volunteer workers who are assisting in taking applications.

The center is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and will probably remain in New Madrid until Thursday. Persons who have sustained flood losses and need assistance are urged to visit the center.

Rivers continue slow recession

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mississippi Valley residents from Hannibal, Mo., to New Orleans are asking the question, "When will the river go down?"

More spring rain in northern Illinois and Missouri have pushed both the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers toward new crests but the river district office of the National Weather Service said the crests will fall short of the records experienced April 26.

Nevertheless the increased water runoff and subsequent high river stages are delaying the return of nearly 7,000 persons, estimated to have been forced from their homes by the swollen rivers in Missouri and Illinois.

Col. Ferd Anderson, the secretary of the Mississippi River Commission, said Monday that it will be at least June before floodwaters "recede sufficiently" in the lower Mississippi Valley—and that is barring any further rainfall.

The Missouri at St. Charles, where flood stage is 25 feet, is expected to rise to 30 feet by Wednesday, more than a foot from the 28.9 level recorded Monday.

The Mississippi River gauge at St. Louis read 37.1 feet Monday and is to reach 38 feet by Wednesday, a level 8 feet above flood stage. The Mississippi has been above flood at St. Louis since March 7.

The river was continuing its slow recession at points north of St. Louis.

The ban on commercial barge traffic on the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers continued except for a 17-mile portion of the river in the St. Louis area.

During a press conference here, Col. Anderson said 12.7 million acres of bottomland from Missouri to the mouth of the Mississippi were under water due to the flooding, resulting in $407 million in damages, mostly to farm land.

Of that amount, Anderson said, the Corps of Engineers estimated that 2.3 million acres were under water in Missouri and Illinois with $140 million in damages.

More than 5,000 have applied for low-interest loans and 1,500 have sought temporary housing, he said. The figures applied to the 81 counties and the City of St. Louis which were declared flood disaster areas in Missouri by President Richard Nixon last month.

7 persons appear in police court

EAST PRAIRIE— Seven persons appeared in Police Court Monday.

Kenneth Sterling, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $100; Larry Johnson, assault and battery, $25; Ann Britt, allowing dog to run loose, $5; and Floyd V. Bell Jr., Phillip Blackman and Anthony G. Childress, careless and heedless driving, fined $25 each.

A careless and heedless driving charge against Mike Bryant was dismissed.

U.S. wins in O.T.

NEW YORK (AP) — Even in basketbrawl, there's a place for the little man.

Ernie DiGregorio of Providence, the littlest man on the floor, proved it Monday night as he sparked the U.S. squad to an 89-80 overtime victory over the touring Russian National basketball team before 15,734 at Madison Square Garden.

"Ernie sure got us going when we needed it, didn't he?" praised U.S. Coach Bob Cousy, a pretty fair little man in his own right. "He picked us up when we were in trouble, big trouble."

Ernie D. sank a pair of baskets in the final minute of regulation play to erase a 73-69 Russian lead, hit two baskets in overtime and set up two more to put the Americans out ahead, then stymied the Russians with his artful dribbling and ballhandling.

"As I've said before, Ernie is the best player—pound for pound—that I've seen in college this year. Some of the things he does are just amazing."

The Russian coach, Vladimir Kandrashin, was equally impressed.

"If we had him, we wouldn't lose any games," Kandrashin said.

From the time he re-entered the game, with 2:08 to go in regulation, up until the finish, Ernie D. was the whole show.

"At the end I felt I had to take over—and I did," said the six-foot All-American. That he did. His shooting was deadly, his passing brilliantly accurate, his dribbling dazzlingly deft.

In the overtime, with the U.S. squad safely in front, he ran circles around the Russians as they tried to take the ball away from him. None could catch him.

"I don't think any of them can take the ball away from me," he said afterwards, with more honesty than braggadocio. "It's not their style."

Ah, their style—basketbrawl.

"It's not quite basketball as we know and love it," said Cousy, smiling.

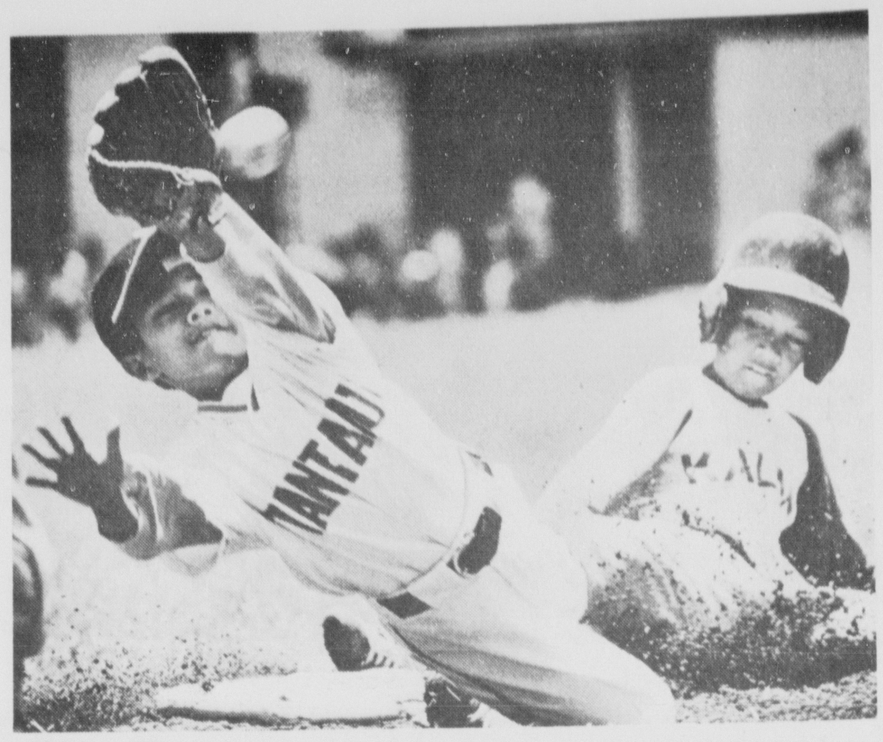

"Blatant, dirty fouls," said 69 center Len Elmore of Maryland. "They do everything they can get away with—elbows, grabbing your jersey, hitting in the back when you go for rebounds. It's brutal."

What the Russians lack in finesse—and they lack a lot—they make up for in power. Under the boards they can hold their own with anyone, but they do not have the finesse or agility of the Americans. So they concentrate on what they do best—hammer away under the boards until the ball drops through, or a foul is called.

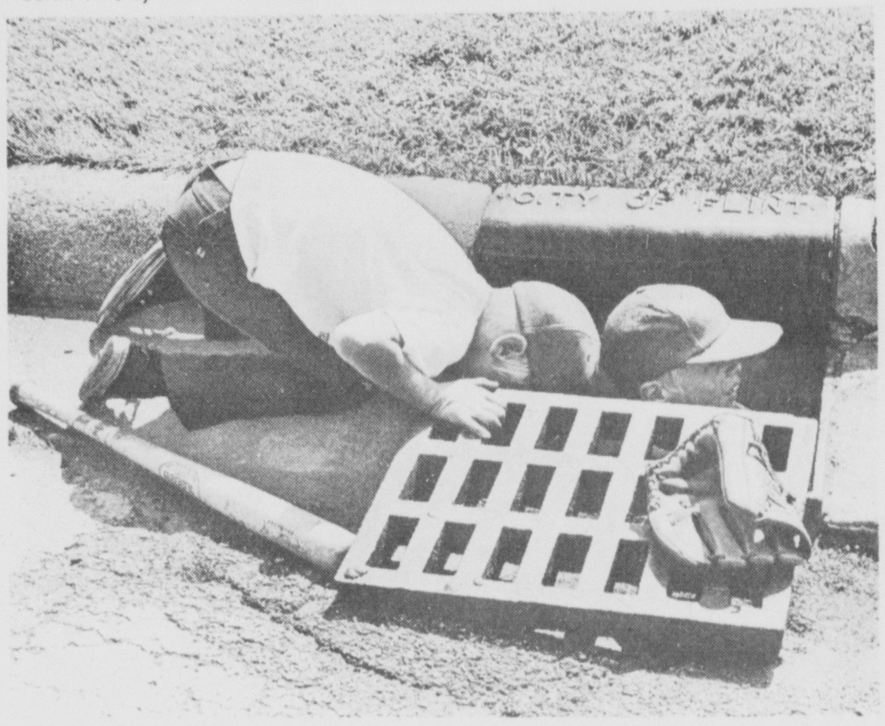

"It's a rough game, but those are international rules and we agreed to play by them," Cousy said.

A total of 75 fouls were called on the two clubs. Eight players fouled out. Five of them were Russians, including the team star, Aleksandr Belov, who had 13 points.

DiGregorio led both clubs with 25 points and 11 assists. Barnes, in his best showing since injuring his knee in the NCAA semifinals, had 21 points, many on spectacular feeds from DiGregorio. Elmore had eight rebounds and Ron Behagen seven to paces the Americans, who outrebounded the visitors 32-28.

ABA playoffs stir roughness

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Rick Mount of the Kentucky Colonels, who picked up a black eye and stitched brow in last Saturday's game with the Indiana Pacers, says he hopes fisticuffs don't erupt again tonight in the fifth game of the American Basketball Association championship.

Last Saturday, when Indiana took the fourth game 90-86 to even the best-of-7 series, there were 42 turnovers, 47 fouls, and a second quarter fight between Mount and Donnie Freeman of the Pacers.

Because of the emotional defensive struggle in the playoff series, in which both teams have averaged fewer than 100 points a game, Mount is reluctant to predict calm.

"You just don't know," he said after practice Monday. "Playoff games are funny.

"With all that tension, it might break out again, especially considering the rivalry between Indiana and Kentucky."

Mount would not discount the importance of the concentration on defense.

In a championship playoff, he said, "you think more about defense. More and more, you're thinking about shutting your guy off."

Tonight, though, he said, the team that can get its offense going should pull ahead in the series.

"I think that's why we won the third game, Mount said. "We got the ball out, got some breaks and got some offense going in the fourth quarter."

The Colonels won that contest 92-88.

Pacers' Coach Bob Leonard said he believed Saturday's fracas between Mount and Freeman was an isolated incident.

"It wasn't really much," he said. "The big thing is not to let the fans get involved. That's what's concerning me."

Little league bans girls

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — When the Ypsilanti Little League plays its scheduled season openers today, 12-year-old Carolyn King won't be on the field.

Carolyn's bid to become the first girl to crack the roster of a Ypsilanti Little League team was halted late Monday when the league's managers, in an 11th-hour private meeting, decided to drop her from the league.

"We decided to drop Carolyn from the roster but to contine to fight in court to have her reinstated," said Bob Taylor, vice president of the group.

The Little League, with national headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., has a rule banning girls.

"She's very good, that's the crime of the whole thing," Taylor said. "If she was a mediocre player you could say forget it, but she puts most 11 and 12-year-olds to shame."

A common complaint about the Little League program is that the adults who run it won't get out of the way and simply let the youngsters play their game. But in Carolyn's case, she was betrayed by her wouldbe contemporaries.

Of the 40 boys in the league, 23 voted to kick Carolyn out of the league. Nine voted to let her play, five abstained and three were not available when the vote was taken.

"There was a possibility the league would lose its charter and equipment and financial support," Taylor said. "We'd have hundreds of kids involved who couldn't play baseball.

"When it comes down to one kid versus 204, we have to consider the 204."

Big Red trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Lineman Roger Finnie of the New York Jets was traded Monday to the St. Louis Cardinals for offensive tackle Vern Emerson, it was announced here.

Emerson, 6-5 and 260 pounds, played three years with the Cardinals before sitting out the last season in retirement.

Finnie, 6-3 and 245 pounds, has been with the Jets for four seasons, playing both offense and defense. He spent most of the last season as a guard.

The National Football League deal involved only the players and no cash.

Boston's John Curtis had some unprintable things to say about the weather in Chicago Monday night, so it's a good thing he wasn't working at his off-season job as a sports writer at the time.

Instead, the 25-year-old lefthander was doing his pitching thing for the Boston Red Sox. And what he did was limit the Chicago White Sox to five hits and snap their nine-game American League winning streak 4-1.

"I was cursing under my breath when it started to rain," Curtis said after some early-inning precipitation.

But the wetness turned out to be a blessing in disguise, soaking the artificial turf in White Sox Park just enough to cause the Chicago outfielders some fifth-inning grief.

Orlando Cepeda led off with what looked like a single, but center fielder Ken Henderson slipped chasing the ball and Cepeda limped into second. With two on and two out, John Kennedy also hit what appeared to be a single. This time, right fielder John Jeter lost his footing and by the time he recovered Kennedy had a triple and the Red Sox had two runs.

In the only other American League action, Baltimore trimmed California 8-2. New York at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Pittsburgh edged Los Angeles 5-4, San Diego defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1, Houston blanked Montreal 6-0, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati 3-2 in 14 innings and the New York Mets beat Atlanta 7-2. San Francisco and St. Louis were not scheduled.

It was Curtis' first start since April 19 and his first triumph and first complete game of the season. He also pitched his way out of the bullpen and back into the Red Sox' starting rotation.

While the White Sox' streak came to an end, Houston stretched its string of victories to nine as Dave Roberts hurled a six-hitter in blanking Montreal.

Pittsburgh unloaded on Los Angeles ace Don Sutton with solo home runs by Willie Stargell, Dave Cash, Richie Hebner, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver to beat the Dodgers, wiping out a 4-1 deficit in the process.

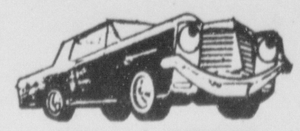

San Diego, which had beaten the Cubs only 10 times in 51 meetings and were 0-3 this season, whipped Chicago behind Bill Greif's two-hit pitching. Fred Kendall and Dave Campbell each collected a single and double and drove in two runs while Greif blanked the Cubs until Jose Cardenal's eighth-inning homer.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson ordered an intentional pass to rookie Mike Rogodzinski, with two on in the 14th inning, but reliever Pedro Borbon also walked Mike Ryan on a 3-2 pitch to force in the winning run for Philadelphia.

The Mets finally scored some runs for Tom Seaver—six in the eighth inning—and ended a five-game skid by beating Atlanta.

Baltimore scored five unearned runs in defeating Oakland behind Doyle Alexander's five-hit pitching.

West returns

NEW YORK (AP) — "I just may have to take the ball up more," said massive Wilt Chamberlain, pondering a more active role offensively when his Los Angeles Lakers try to even their National Basketball Association championship series against the New York Knicks in tonight's nationally televised fourth game at Madison Square Garden.

"I don't know whether I can," said the 36-year-old Chamberlain, a powerful force defensively and under the boards in the first three games, "but I'll give as much as I can.

"That's all you can do—give what you have."

The Knicks grabbed a 2-1 lead in the series by beating the Lakers 87-83 in Game Three Sunday, as Los Angeles superstar Jerry West sat out the fourth quarter with hamstring pulls in both his legs.

West expects to be back in action tonight. After being treated on Monday by Dr. Robert Kerlan, the LA team physician, West said, "I feel a lot better...I am confident I will be able to play Tuesday night."

West's presence will certainly make a difference. As Chamberlain said Sunday, when the Lakers stayed close but could never overhaul the Knicks in the final period, "We're so used to going to Jerry in the fourth quarter, it puts a lot of pressure on us to have him sitting on the bench."

But the biggest difference could be an offensively aroused Chamberlain. In the first three games, the huge pivotman has concentrated on defense and rebounding, hauling down nearly 18 rebounds per game and clogging the middle on defense. But he's taken only 18 shots from the floor, and is averaging a meager 7.3 points per game.

"I'm just happy he hasn't gone to the hoop more," offered New York center Willis Reed. "We've been in enough foul trouble as it is."

"The Knicks play such good defense, sometimes I just couldn't go to the hoop," offered Chamberlain following Sunday's loss, which saw the Lakers score their fewest points in playoff history.

New York Coach Red Holzman, using Jerry Lucas and even rookie John Gianelli off the bench to spell Reed, managed to keep a fresh man going against Chamberlain, the only player on the two teams to play every minute in all three games.

"It looked like everyone was on me out there," said Wilt.

Reed came up with an outstanding performance, scoring a team-high 22 points, hauling in 10 rebounds and calling it his "most important game" since the Knicks' championship season of 1970. Reed has been slowed by leg injuries since then.

Did going up against the massive Chamberlain provide special problems for Reed?

"Sure he intimidates," Reed conceded. "When you go up for a shot inside against Wilt, you have to think about him blocking it.

9 injured in area traffic accidents

Nine persons were injured Monday in three area traffic accidents, the highway patrol said today.

Stephen Charles Howery, 20, of Maryland Heights suffered minor injuries at 9:15 a.m. when he made a left turn of Highway 51 one-half mile south of Perryville into the path of a car driven by Donald Cassel, 36, of Perryville.

Howery was treated and released from Perry County Hospital in Perryville.

A tractor - trailer truck and a car collided at 8:35 p.m. on Highway 60 six miles east of Poplar Bluff.

Carter received minor injuries and a passenger, Carol Ann Nelson, 22, of Poplar Bluff suffered a minor concussion. They were taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Handy jailed on break-in charge

Daniel Eugene Tippy, 205 S. Handy, was in city jail this morning charged with the April 26 break-in of the Paul Trexler home, 854 Cambridge Drive.

Tippy allegedly broke into the house while the Trexlers were away on vacation and took eight guns valued at $1,000 and a set of diamond rings valued at $1,200.

Detective Dan Hinton said he took a fingerprint from the gun case that matched Tippy's. Lt. Leonard Campbell recovered one of the guns.

Other arrests announced today include Earnie Adams, Smith Street, for public intoxication and Lawrence Tate, 126 N. Handy, on two counts of peace disturbance and assault and battery.

DOWNTOWN SIKESTON

Senator says 9% of legislation is harmful

JEFFERSON CITY — State Senator A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood, has a modest proposal for the Missouri General Assembly: adjourn immediately.

Not that the legislature's job is done by any means. Between now and June 15, final action will have to come on major issues such as state reorganization, tax relief for the elderly, and $1.9 billion in state appropriations. There is also the matter of over 300 other bills on the calendar for debate.

So the question is why Sen. Jones, Minority Floor Leader and a respected veteran of 22 years in the General Assembly, wants to pack up and go home. As a matter of fact, Jones made the same suggestion back in January when the legislature was just getting started.

The reason for the suggestion, Jones told the Missouri Press recently, is that "90 percent of the bills are harmful."

"Sixty percent of them are directly harmful to the people," Jones said, "and 30 per cent are the bills the state budget cannot afford. Almost all of the bills on the calendar are terrible."

Jones suggests the General Assembly pass the state reorganization bill, a modest appropriations bill, and a few bills necessary to bring the state into compliance with federal regulations, such as welfare reform. Then he says they ought to pack up and go home.

Moreover, he thinks the U.S. congress ought to adjourn six months of the year.

There's a method to this seeming madness. Jones says that most of the measures passed by the state and federal government either "clutter up the statute books" or impinge upon individual freedom.

Jones, who says he has a "Scandinavian concept of freedom", sees a threat of "Big Brotherism" in most of the laws being considered.

"The Scandinavians think a man ought to be totally free unless he interferes with someone else's freedom.," he says. "I ought to be free to take off my clothes and run nakedup High Street (the street running in front of the Capitol) if I want."

Jones is also concerned about the effect of regulatory laws on the free enterprise system. Such regulations, he says, do not effectively control big businesses and at the same time "are creaming the little man."

Although he says there are examples in "any field you can name," he cited agriculture as one example. "The big farmers are not being hurt by government regulations," he says, "but the man with a ten acre farm has been regulated out of business."

"I'm not a conservative," Jones insists, "I'm a civil libertarian. I believe in total freedom. If people can't make the best of a free chance, then they can go straight to hell."

Jones is proud that there have been fewer licensing laws passed in Missouri than most other states during the past 22 years because of his presence in the General Assembly.

What would motivate a man like Sen. Jones, a lawyer and an independent businessman, to spend 22 years as a watchdog against encroachment of regulatory legislation? Is a crusade an inspirational call to public service?

"I do it as a hobby," Jones said seriously. "It's been an expensive hobby over 22 years."

Jones takes his "hobby" seriously, as he is one of the few legislators who takes the time to read every piece of legislation introduced in the General Assembly. His knowledge of the laws often leads other Senators to call upon him for a clarification of an item under debate. And if the bill is a regulatory law, most often he votes and speaks against the measure, sometime successfully, but more often unsuccessfully. A majority of the legislators feel that the state has a proper place in controlling abuses by business and industry.

At this stage of the session, Jones has another method to keep bill he doesn't like -- meaning 90 percent of them -- from reaching the floor for debate. He shows up early in the Senate sessions and stays late, to insure that legislative leaders don't try to "run the calendar." Unless someone like Sen. Jones objects, the President of the Senate can shuffle bills from the formal schedule for debate onto the informal schedule where they can be heard anytime. Since Jones doesn't want them heard, he usually objects to the procedure and brings it to a halt.

Jones places his faith in businessmen and not the state in controlling abuses. He worries about the atmosphere he calls "Naderism" in Washington, the view inspired by consumer advocate Ralph Nader which Jones sums up as: "Business is a terrible evil and if we eliminated business, we'd have a wonderful country."

"Everybody abuses," Jones says, "there's terrible abuse by criminals in this country and nobody seems to be doing anything about that."

Jones learned about criminal abuse first hand earlier in the legislative session when two men robbed him at gunpoint of $70 when he was home for the weekend. Jones fellow- Senators laughingly took note that he used his considerable skills as an orator to persuade the crooks to take his money and leave him his papers and his wallet.

It takes a brave man to propose that the legislature leave Jefferson City and go home, especially when you consider that it was at home that Jones was robbed.

The running battle between Gov. Bond and the General Assembly over fiscal responsibility has taken a couple of new turns.

The legislature, irate with Bond's veto of a zero- base budget bill, announced plans to sue the Governor over his veto of certain words in the $16.1 million emergency budget bill. The legislature will ask the court to force the Governor to follow the General Assembly's wording in approving state expenditures, fearing that otherwise the Governor could spend money wherever he wanted.

The Governor retaliated by charging that the Missouri House had already approved more than $50 million in programs that the state has no money for. The Governor hinted that if the legislature wants to spend money at that rate, then the legislature would have to take responsibility for raising taxes to pay for the new programs.

CONTINENTAL ELEGANCE—This classic country French room proves you needn't be a Frenchman to live like one. Waverly's all-cotton floral fabric in shades of wine and blue sets the atmosphere here, appearing in Austrian shades, below the window, and on the loveseat and dining chairs. Gracefully styled French provincial furniture further defines the continental look.

Appropriations bill to go to Senate floor

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee continued work on the appropriations bill Monday night making final changes before submitting the bill to the Senate floor for debate later this week.

The only excitement occurred just before the committee voted to cut $544,779 from the funds for the Missouri Council on the Arts.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, questioned the $250,000 given to the St. Louis and Kansas City symphonies. Howard said the amounts should be more.

Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, objected loudly to Howard's suggestion saying the money was more than they should get.

"That's for the fat cats to get them off the hook," Webster said referring to the two symphonies.

When Howard persisted, Webster threatened with an amendment to take away the $500,000. Howard said no more.

The committee voted to appropriate $654,920 for the arts council, almost half the $1,301,699 in the governor's budget recommendation.

A brief party argument over funds for the Republican state auditor's office arose when Webster made a motion to restore cuts in the budget made when Gov. Christopher S. Bond was auditor.

New Madrid council airs flood problems

NEW MADRID — Problems created by flooding and their solutions were primary topics of a three and one- half hour City Council meeting Monday night.

Sam L. Hunter Jr., heading a delegation of approximately 75 citizens who filled the council room to overflowing, related to the board the problems besetting city residents during the past week.

Hunter pointed out that storm sewers and ditches were inadequate to handle the runoff water from heavy rains and that many would need to be enlarged and redesigned, particularly the main drainage ditches on Kingshighway and Riley Street.

He also pointed out the potential threat of water from the "dry run" area overflowing the ridge north of town and getting into the city as well as the need for pumps to alleviate that situation.

Alderman Bob Blom then told the gathering of the combined efforts of the city and the Army Corps of Engineers to fight the threat of flooding, stating that the mayor, aldermen, city employes and the Corps of Engineers had worked around the clock to obtain pumps from every possible place, preventing more serious flooding by these efforts.

He also stated that three additional 16- inch pumps had been located for possible purchase by the city. The council later approved purchase of the pumps at an estimated cost of $4,800.

In other business, night marshal Gene Lyles submitted his resignation and City Administrator Don Lloyd was authorized to take applications for a replacement. Lyles' resignation is effective May 14.

The mayor was authorized to execute a contract with the Department of Housing and Urban Development to implement a park and recreation program. The proposal calls for $59,657 to be spent on parks and recreation with the city to furnish one- half the cost.

The council approved results of the April 3 city election in which incumbent aldermen Bill Boyd of ward one, Ed LaValle of ward two and John A. Hunter of ward three were unopposed and re-elected.

Following adjournment of the old board, the council reconvened and new officers were sworn in.

Business handled by the new board included increasing the night marshal's salary to $100 per week and a board order requiring that, in the event a police officer was hired who was a nonresident, he would be required to become a resident within 30 days after being hired.
